Will Start Action To Acquire Properties For Post Office Site

Expect Post Office Department To Push Plan For Local Building
DIAMOND SITE TO BE PURCHASED
Two Needed Tracts In Site Have Not As Yet Been "Priced" To Government

With the announcement from Washington late yesterday, that the Inter-Departmental Building committee of the Treasury and Post Office Departments, had officially selected the site on the southwest corner of Washington and Jefferson streets, for the new post-office to be erected in New Castle, it is expected that the project will move along more rapidly than in the past.

Large Site
It will be a matter of time to secure the site, and until the site is actually turned over to the government, progress on the building plans will likely be delayed. The site is a large one and includes the tract bounded by Washington, Jefferson and Market streets, with the exception of the Clark property, which is on the west end of the site, near the First Christian church. This will be secured later, if it is not available at the present time, and the building will be constructed on the site without it.

In the postoffice site, there are still two parcels of land upon which no price has been given. The government will proceed at once to (Continued On Page Two)

PA NEW OBSERVES

Pa New learned something this morning, which gives him much concern. It is to the effect that practically every Oak tree in the city and county is affected by a blight that is now spreading among the trees of this type. This is noticeable to any person taking the time to observe the oak trees. It is shown by spots throughout the trees in which the leaves are all dead. According to Pa New's informant, the same fate may befall the Oak trees that have already killed off the chestnut and butternut trees of the district.

Simultaneous announcement that a site had been selected for the new postoffice here, and a visit of the heads of the state armory board inspecting possible sites for an armory here, seems to indicate that New Castle will get two public buildings of considerable size in the near future.

There seems to be a disposition to argue in some sources as to whether or not there was a frost in this vicinity yesterday morning.

With the opening of the road from New Wilmington to Mercer this week, providing a direct improved route from New Castle to Mercer via New Wilmington, the necessity for widening the Wilmington road from Walmo to New Wilmington, will become increasingly apparent. This highway, one of the most traveled in the county, has been (Continued On Page Two)

ART STUDENT IS PLACED IN JAIL BY ERROR

Gertrude Pulscher (above), of Jamestown, N. D., an art student in Paris, is back in the French capital none the worse after an adventure which included spending 20 hours in a jail at Bardonecchia, Italy. Freed as soon as it was evident a case of mistaken identity had occurred, Miss Pulscher returned to Paris to tell a story of an unusual error caused by her striking resemblance to an American woman who is wanted by police for subversive activities against the Italian government.

Alleged Poisoner Of Two Daughters Placed On Trial

Mrs. Carrie Simmons, On Trial For Poisoning Of Her Two Daughters

JURY SELECTION HAS COMMENCED

(International News Service) LEBANON, Ind., Sept. 30.—Mrs. Carrie Simmons, being tried on the charge that she killed two of her daughters, steadfastly maintained her innocence today as attorneys moved to complete a jury.

Eight men were tentatively accepted by both state and defense as court opened.

Ben Seifers, county prosecutor, has qualified all the jurors on the death penalty.

Mrs. Simmons, a farmer's wife and a church worker, is accused of having provided the strychnine-laced sandwiches which killed Alice Simmons, 10, and her sister, Virginia, 14, at a family picnic three months ago.

The defendant has admitted she made the sandwiches, but denies knowledge of the poison.

The state is expected to contend that the sandwiches were not touched by anyone but Mrs. Simmons until they were consumed.

Defense Attorney Willett Parr has indicated he will argue the presence of a "mystery killer," who placed the strychnine in the sandwiches after they had been prepared.

DOE DARTS ACROSS STREET CAR TRACKS; STARTLES MOTORMAN

Motorman Ray Bailey was almost as much startled as the nimble doe that he had scared off the tracks of the Youngstown car line at stop 42, about 7 o'clock this morning.

Half hidden by fog the tracks revealed a doe of about 80 pounds standing just ahead. As the trolley neared the animal suddenly sprang to a side of the road and disappeared.

Mrs. Clark Tells Why She Refuses To Sell Her Home For Post Office Site; Has Lived In It For Nearly 60 Years

"I couldn't leave this place. I love it too much. It is a part of me, if you understand. I came here nearly sixty years ago as a bride and I have from this window watched New Castle grow to what it is. My furniture, everything I like is here. I absolutely won't sell. They understand that."

Such is Mrs. Mary Wilder Clark's explanation of her refusal to sell her home on the Diamond to the government for use in the erection of a new postoffice.

The elderly Mrs. Clark is determined in the stand she is taking and the government has decided not to condemn the property but to erect the great building on the remaining area at the southwest corner of Washington and Jefferson streets.

To Remain At Her Home
In an interview this morning with a representative of The News, Mrs. Clark stated once again that under no consideration would she sell the little frame house she so dearly loves. Seated in her rocking chair in her upstairs bedroom this morning the pioneer resident of New Castle whimsically recalled her early life, every detail woven in the history of the little two story frame house.

Mrs. Clark, sister of the late Mrs. D. B. Kurtz who lived so many years on East Washington street at Croton avenue, was born and has lived her entire life in this city. Her father, Shubail Wilder, purchased the little home on the Diamond from the McBride family. The McBrides had secured it from the Belsel family. It is not known in what year the house was erected but it is believed that it has been standing there for a century.

Home Is Dear
"I have always lived a retired life," Mrs. Clark told the writer. "And my home has become more dear to me than anyone can understand. I don't go outside very often. The home has been my little world. Downstairs in the parlor is furniture which belonged to my mother and my mother's mother. Other pieces were here when I came as a bride. There are memories attached to them, and they belong here."

Asked where she would live if the government decided to condemn the property, Mrs. Clark replied,

"That would end everything I guess, but it won't come to that. If it does, I don't know what to do. I know I would never start over again. I would never try to get together a home of my own. Everything would end for me. But," she added, and again the determined tone came in her voice, "They won't do that. I have attorneys and I intend to stay."

Will Elect County Controller This Fall

Members of the Republican and Democratic county committees have been summoned to meet Saturday afternoon in the court house for the purpose of selecting candidates to represent the two respective parties for the office of county controller, at the November election.

The Republican county committee will meet at 1:30 in the afternoon, while the Democratic county committee will meet at 3 o'clock. Following the presentation of petitions bearing the names of more than 4,000 voters, urging the creation of the office of county controller, and the court's action in approving the petitions, it becomes necessary for the different parties to name their candidates, the primary election having been held prior to the creation of the office.

The rules of the Republican and Democratic parties provide for the nomination of the candidate to represent their party, and this selection will be made at Saturday's meeting.

This does not mean that no other person can run for the office of county controller. Any person desiring to run independently for an office may file papers to be placed on the ballot up to and including October 6. However, they cannot take the name of the Republican or Democratic parties, unless they are nominated by the county committees of these parties. They may take any name providing it does not contain more than three words.

Duck Hunters! Beware!

Andrew Dodds, president of the Lawrence County Sportsmen's Association, today asked The News to call attention of sportsmen to a peculiar change in the law regarding duck hunting this season. The duck hunting season opens on October 1, but instead of opening at daybreak as in the past, a new federal law makes the season open at 12 o'clock noon. Mr. Dodds reports. Hence, he is warning duck hunters to beware of running afoul of the law tomorrow.

(International News Service) KITTANNING, Pa., Sept. 30.—Trapped in his blazing home at Troy Hill, a few miles from here, Bernard Kline, 13, was burned to death today. His father, Frank, 55, was burned so severely he is not expected to live, and five other members of the family escaped without injury.

Mrs. Kline was taken to a hospital where she was treated for shock. Three children, Earl, 27, Hazel, 4, Earl, 3, and Merle Hill, 17, a stepson of the couple, fled from the house when they were awakened by smoke.

Father Badly Burned

President Hoover Remains Silent On Coolidge Statement

Believed However That President Will Send Letter Of Appreciation

ACTION WOULD START CAMPAIGN

Hoover Has Made No Declaration As To Second Term Attitude

(By GEORGE R. HOLMES, International News Service Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Although President Hoover has preserved strict silence concerning Calvin Coolidge's dramatic self-effacement from all political consideration from all political quarters today that a letter will very shortly go forward from the White House expressing Mr. Hoover's gratification to his predecessor.

It was rumored today that such a missive already has been sent, but the White House had nothing to say about it.

No Hoover Announcement

Publication of such a letter, of course, would be tantamount to Mr. Hoover's announcement of his own 1932 candidacy. While no doubt exists in any quarter that the President will be a candidate to succeed himself, not by any public word or deed has Mr. Hoover announced it. A letter of appreciation to Mr. Coolidge for his self-effacement would afford a convenient vehicle for such an announcement.

The more republicans studied the Coolidge statement today the more they liked it, not so much because Mr. Coolidge eliminated himself, for many of them sincerely hoped he would be available, but because Mr. Coolidge coupled with his gesture of renunciation a militant cry for party unity and solidarity.

Republican leaders of the practical, far-seeing sort are under no illusions about the party's chances in 1932. Irrespective of what they may assert with every show of confidence in their public utterances, they all realize and admit privately that they have a real fight on their hands next year. That fight will be infinitely more difficult if there is to be any serious disaffection in the ranks.

State and local police were rushed to the scene. Although there was no official report, the first theory was that the woman had been murdered.

She evidently had been dead about ten or twelve hours. Rigor mortis already had set in.

The body was found by Mrs. Rosemond, a maid in the resort.

The automobile was driven by Ovey.

Paper Of 1868 Found In Old Church Ceiling

While workmen were engaged today in removing the original ceiling of the First Christian Church on the public square, for the purpose of making some improvements, they came across an edition of the New Castle Courant of September 25, 1868. It was stuck in the ceiling. Whether some of the workmen had been reading it and left it there, or how it got up in the ceiling no one can explain. But it was there, and it was in a good state of preservation, being easily read.

The paper is in possession of the pastor, Rev. G. S. Bennett and is being viewed with interest by many local citizens.

Begin Hearing Of Prof. Kane In Wife's Death

Coroner Vanderslice Tells Why He Changed Verdict From "Accident"

DROWNING STORIES SHOWED CONFLICT

Relatives Of Mrs. Kane Expressed "Foul Play," Belief, Coroner Says

(By DAVID P. SENTNER, International News Service Staff Correspondent)

HAMPTON, Va., Sept. 30.—Coroner George K. Vanderslice, at the hearing of Professor Elisha Kent Kane, charged with drowning his young wife today told why he believed a murder had been committed and why he changed the official verdict from "accidental death" to "homicidal drowning."

The coroner gave the following reasons for his change of mind:

1—The stories told by fishermen in the vicinity regarding the drowning of Mrs. Jenny Graham Kane, near Back River Lighthouse did not coincide with the story told by Professor Kane.

2—The mother, father and brother of Mrs. Kane expressed their suspicions of "foul play."

3—The letters from "the other woman," Betty Dahl, to the Professor, which would serve as a motive, were revealed by Mrs. W. C. Graham, mother of Mrs. Kane.

The spectators leaned forward en masse when the testimony turned around the "letters from Betty."

"Hop" Graham, brother of Mrs. Kane, said that in 1929, Professor Kane was in training camp in Fayetteville, N. C. and was with a woman supposed to be a nurse," testified the coroner.

"He said that letters from this (Continued On Page Two)

Akron Dirigible Will Now Try For Altitude Testing

Will Now Try For Altitude Testing

(International News Service) AKRON, O., Sept. 30.—A new test flight for altitude, in which the big dirigible may reach a height of 30,000 feet, was expected to be made today with the U. S. Navy Zeppelin Akron which this week completed the first of her second series of trial flights.

Naval officers were reticent concerning possibility of the altitude test, but apparently well-informed sources had it that the altitude test would be made today if weather permits and that tests would also be made of the ship's diving ability.

The Akron has completed about 20 of the 75 hours flying specified by navy tests.

When the wind creeps down the chimney and the rain soaks through the screen, when the night is damp and chilly, then the fall is here. I mean. For these nights of moonlit meadows and those breezes soft and low are moving out to other lands to be replaced by snow. Those nights for summer lovers soon will have a tinge of frost, and lovers then will find that sport will pile up heaps of cost, for the frost destroys illusion underneath a summer sky. Weather's 72 and chilly tho I must say it is dry.

Control Of House Hangs In Balance

Control Of Next House Of Representatives In Washington Is In Doubt

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Control of the next House of Representatives swung like an erratic finger today, pointing first at one party and then at the other.

Democratic chances of organizing the new House were materially enhanced by the smashing Democratic victory won in the seventh Missouri district yesterday.

Robert D. Johnson, the Democratic candidate, won by nearly 10,000 votes over the Republican candidate, John W. Palmer, and an independent wet candidate, L. L. Collins.

Ordinarily Democratic

The seventh Missouri is ordinarily Democratic by a small margin, although it elected a Republican in 1928, and the overwhelming figures rolled up by the regular Democratic against two opponents were a source of gratification to party headquarters here.

The Missouri outcome makes the present House line-up stand: Republicans, 214; Democrats, 213; Farmer-Labor, 1; vacancies, 7.

Three of these vacancies, in the 8th Michigan, 2nd Pennsylvania, and 1st Wisconsin districts, are considered certain to remain Republican.

Similarly, three others, the 20th Ohio, 7th New York, and 1st Georgia, are considered certain to remain Democratic.

The elections are to be held early in November.

Makes Address

To Kiwanians

"Interpreting the Work of the Public School to the Public" was the enlightening theme of an address which the city's Kiwanis club men heard Dr. C. C. Green, superintendent of schools, deliver at their luncheon-meeting in the Elks club today.

Dr. Green's talk was most instructive and generated unusual interest inasmuch as it dealt upon a subject so close to the fathers of all school children.

The school chief urged upon the club importance of obtaining accurate information regarding the various features of public education, reminding them at the same time of its highly complex character. He developed the idea that students themselves lack sufficient capacity to interpret the work and thereby pointed out that parental observation is needed.

The "Know Your School" series of pamphlets which Dr. Green and his assistants have prepared were explained to the clubmen.

In concluding his remarks, the superintendent praised highly the New Castle News for its intelligent interpretation of school news. His compliment goes to the editor and the staff members, he said.

elled in this section, is at the same time, about the narrowest. Extension of a couple of feet on both sides of the concrete would make the highway much safer and more convenient for the heavy traffic.

There was a broad smile across the faces of the post office window clerks this morning, and nearly every mailer noticed it immediately as they stepped up. But, with the post office site chosen, could you blame them.

At the East Washington street bridge site the crowds get larger as the work draws nearer to completion.

Even bands run into difficulties.

The Ben Franklin Junior High school band natively attired didn't like the idea of marching over newly oiled road at the end of West Washington street yesterday and so they detoured a few miles out of their way to the Youngstown road. They were enroute to Union High for a football game. Miss Eva Coulter was in charge of the band. They made a nice appearance as they paraded by the Ben Franklin school up Mill street to Washington street and out to the West Side.

Do any of you old timers remember the Wilder hotel? It stood on the Diamond on a portion of the selected site for the new postoffice.

Quite a large number of owners of possible sites for armories called the members of the local committee last night, following announcement of the fact that the army board was looking for a site here, and had inspected several. It was a different story however, when those making the inquiries found out that sites for state armories must be donated and not purchased.

Preparations are being made to raise $6,000 in New Castle and environs to carry on the work of the Salvation Army in New Castle and Lawrence county. This has been found necessary on account of the New Castle Community Chest eliminating the Salvation Army from its budget this year.

The Community Chest Budget committee recommended that the Salvation Army be allowed to raise its own financial support because the amount the chest could give would not be "adequate" to meet the needs of the Salvation Army.

Members of the advisory board met this morning in the Salvation Army Hall and completed the details of the appeal. The advance subscription committee will commence work right away, but the actual appeal will not take place until an early date in November. The advisory board asks that the friends of the Army reserve their subscription for it. J. C. Miner is the treasurer of the Army in this city.

The News will not operate the mechanical ball player for the world's series games which start this week.

Due to the apparent lack of interest in the service in the past few years, it has been decided by The News management that this expense would not be justified at the present time, and consequently the ball player will not be operated for the series. It is a matter of several hundred dollars expense to present the games on the ball player.

The score of the games will be posted by innings, and phone calls on the games will be answered by The News, but there will be no special service on the games at The News as heretofore, this year.

PRESIDENT HOOVER COOLIDGE STATEMENT REMAINS SILENT ON

solidarity that Mr. Coolidge appeared.

The closing sentences of Mr. Coolidge's article in the current Saturday Evening Post constituted a simple and yet dramatic republican war-cry. He said:

"In an emergency like the present, the responsible elements of our party should offer a solid front in their support of the President."

"That is the course I propose to pursue."

Nothing could be more simply or more succinctly stated.

Phrased a little differently, Mr. Coolidge, in effect, said:

"Others (including, presumably the progressive insurgents and agrarian discontents) may stray from the party fold, but I, Calvin Coolidge, propose to stand by the President."

Opinions of the various political elements concerning the Coolidge act were just about what was to be expected.

Regular Republicans like Senator Watson of Indiana, and Senator Fess of Ohio, declared that it removed the last vestige of doubt concerning Mr. Hoover's re-nomination, and that it cleared the atmosphere for a vigorous and united republican effort behind Mr. Hoover next year.

Republican insurgents like Senator Brookhart of Iowa, and Senator Frazier of North Dakota, who are openly in opposition to the administration, asserted it would not halt their search for a "real progressive candidate" to substitute for Mr. Hoover next year.

The democrats gleefully proclaimed that "Cal" resigned his claims because he is politically smart enough to know that no republican can be elected next year."

This epitomizes Washington's political reaction to the Coolidge announcement. Only the future can tell whose interpretation is correct.

WILL START ACTION TO ACQUIRE PROPERTY FOR POST OFFICE SITE

secure these under the program followed by the government.

To Secure Properties

Concerning this feature of the site acquisition, and other details, The News Washington correspondent tells the government attitude in the following message:

The United States Treasury Department will wait a reasonable time for the owners of the Kulkin and Smith tracts on the Diamond to offer to sell their land for "fair" prices and will then take steps to acquire the plots through the right of eminent domain in the event such fair prices are not forthcoming.

The Inter-Departmental Building Committee of the Treasury and Post Office Departments Tuesday afternoon definitely approved the Diamond site as the location for the new post office.

Minister announced that the site would include the tract bounded by Washington, Jefferson and Market streets with the exception of the Clark property.

Fair Prices Acceptable

Four parcels are included in that portion of the block approved by the committee and two of these, those bordering on Washington street, will be accepted by the Treasury at the prices asked by the owners because the Treasury regards such as "fair" prices.

The remaining two parcels, the Smith and Kulkin plots, may be acquired by condemnation.

Treasury officials said today that the owners of the Smith and Kulkin land will be advised what prices the department is willing to pay and that a "reasonable" time will then be permitted to elapse before any further action is taken. In the event the Treasury figures are not accepted by the owners of the two parcels, steps will then be made to acquire the tracts by eminent domain.

Officials of the department refused to make public any of the price figures involved, either the "fair" prices asked by the owners of the two parcels fronting on Washington street or the price the government is willing to pay for the Smith and Kulkin land.

Methods Of Procedure

It was said at the Treasury Department that one of two methods may be used in the event the Smith and Kulkin parcels are taken by eminent domain. Under a law passed by Congress last session, the Treasury may deposit with the United States attorney of the district checks for the amount it is willing to pay for the parcels. The attorney then lays the case before a Federal court, and the judge hands down a ruling stating that the owners of the land must accept the checks and vacate by a certain date. On that date the land passes into the hands of the Treasury Department and the clearing of the site may be commenced.

In the event the Treasury does not wish to expedite the project it may request the Justice Department to acquire the land through the regular process of condemnation in which a condemnation commission is appointed and decides what should be paid for the desired property. The use of the method authorized by Congress last session gives immediate possession of the land to the Federal Government whereas condemnation proceedings are frequently dragged out over months.

Treasury officials said they would not decide what method would be used in acquiring the Smith and Kulkin parcels until the owners have had time to indicate whether they will accept the prices offered by the Treasury.

BEGIN HEARING OF PROF. KANE FOR DEATH OF WIFE

woman—five or six—were received over a period of time, and forwarded Knoxvill, where the Professor was teaching. Mrs. Graham, the mother, opened the letters after they were turned over to her by Mrs. Kane.

The coroner then told of the contents of the letter, intercepted by the Graham family. From "Betty" dated September 1, 1931.

"In that letter, it was suggested the professor get rid of his wife," testified the coroner.

"What happened to the other letters?" inquired the defense counsel.

"I believe Mrs. Graham said she destroyed them," the witness replied.

Mother Testifies

Sobbing quietly, a gray haired woman in deep mourning, Mrs. W. C. Graham, mother of Mrs. Jenny Graham Kane, today took the witness stand at the hearing of Professor Elisha Kent Kane, to tell why she believed her daughter was deliberately drowned by her husband.

From her bed where she had been confined from a nervous breakdown, Mrs. Graham came to court and, between sobs, testified to her daughter and the Professor quarrelling the very same morning of the day Jenny was drowned.

She told how she found Jenny and the Professor sitting on opposite sides of the bed on the morning before they went to the beach.

"They didn't speak at breakfast," Mrs. Graham sobbed. "And then I told her she didn't have to go to the beach even if Sashy, the Professor, insisted," cried Mrs. Graham.

Becomes Hysterical

"And the poor little thing looked at me as if to say—mother, mother, please don't let me go—but she went."

At this point Mrs. Graham became hysterical and pressing her handkerchief to her tear-streaked face, cried out:

"My precious, precious Jenny went away and she never came back."

"How can I ever live without my child my little Jenny."

The court stopped the hearing and attendants carried Mrs. Graham from the courtroom.

W. C. Graham, father of Jenny Kane, was then called to the stand. He spoke quietly but with a tremble in his voice, Graham is a justice of the peace in Hilton Village where the professor and his wife stayed at their home.

On the day she was drowned Jenny certainly did not want to go away from the house that morning," testified Graham. "She seemed to have a fear of or fear of 'thing'."

Well Known Mill Worker Is Found Dead In His Bed

Adolph Forkey, 63, Expires At His Home On Wilson Ave., From Heart Trouble

Adolph Forkey, 63, residing at 1612 Wilson avenue, was found dead in bed by his son, Herman Forkey, this morning. The elder Mr. Forkey had not been very well for some time and was in the habit of taking a sleep in the afternoon.

He went to his bedroom about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The fact that he did not get up for supper did not alarm the family, as he had missed his supper on former occasions in the same way.

When he did not appear for breakfast this morning his son, Herman went to his room and found him dead. Mr. Forkey had retired with his clothes on, and as the body was cold when found, it is believed that he died soon after lying down. Coroner J. P. Caldwell was called and gave a certificate of death from heart trouble.

Mr. Forkey was a millwright by occupation and had been employed at the New Castle mill for many years. He was one of the mechanics who laid the foundation for the mill. He had retired from active duties several months ago, and spent his time working about his home.

He is survived by his wife and the following children: Herman, Ruth and Henry Forkey, at home; Carl and Paul Forkey of Los Angeles, Cal.; Mrs. Frances Wiesbaker of Liberty street, and Adolph Forkey of Cedar street, this city.

Mr. Forkey was a member of St. Paul's Lutheran church. Announcement of funeral later.

THEATRE GOERS ENJOY LOCAL STAGE EFFORT

Theatre goers of the city are really interested and enthusiastic over the act being staged this week at the Capitol Theatre, through the efforts of Ted Martin, local orchestra leader and other local talent.

The act is well staged, the music is modern, the singing up to the minute, the dialogue snappy and the dancing modernistic and more or less original. In fact the entire act is sparkling and entertaining and a big hit in spite of the fact that it is more or less a local talent affair.

It is centered about Ted Martin, Melody Monarchs, well known local musical organization and Miss Bertha Miller and the Madson Twins, dancers of ability.

S. OF D. GIRLS ENTERTAIN AT TEA

Most charming as hostesses were the members of the S. of D. Girls of the Central Presbyterian church as they extended hospitality to members and friends of the church Tuesday evening.

As the crowd assembled they were ushered to the upstairs assembly room of the church where they were welcomed by Mrs. Oscar Rhodes, president of the society, who introduced the various numbers of entertainment.

A missionary play, "The Voices of the Women" was most beautifully presented, with Mrs. Bertha Moser taking the part of the Dreamer; Mrs. Hazel Burrows, the Mexican Woman; Mrs. Bernice Hague, the Mohammedan Woman; Mrs. Gertrude Festoso, the Japanese Woman; Mrs. Sylvia Heath, the African Woman; Mrs. Dorothy Gaston, the Indian Woman; Mrs. Marie Stillwagon, the Hindu Widow; Evelyn Festoso, the Hindu Child Widow; Mrs. Hazel Conway, the Korean Woman; Mrs. Madeline McCollum, the Chinese Woman.

Little Joan McCollum gave a song; Bobby Sturtevant, a trumpet solo; and Miss Evelyn Moore a piano number.

A pageant which created plenty of amusement was the next number on the program and as the strains of "Memories" struck the ear onto the platform with mingling steps came Mesdames Ethel Anderson, Gertrude Festoso, Florence Cartwright, Bernice Hague, Marie Brenneman, Margaret Kennedy, Marie Stillwagon, Hazel Burrows, Madeline McCollum and Bertha Montgomery, each dressed in a costume of long ago, with a chapeau of the same period perched on the head. Most striking was the costume of Mrs. Hague, topped off with a parasol of ancient vintage.

Featuring this part of the program was a song "In An Old Fashioned Garden" by Mrs. Bernice Hague and Mrs. Edith Allen.

Little DeEtta Cartwright pleased with a reading, as did little Evelyn Festoso and Luella Watters with vocal solos.

The entertainment closed with musical numbers presented in a novel manner by the "kitchen" orchestra of the society, with several instrumental solos bringing forth much applause. The closing number was a humorous "Depression" song by Mrs. Gertrude Festoso.

The guests were then invited to the church parlors where many small tables filled the rooms, each centered with a bud vase of late summer flowers and tea and cakes were served.

The entertainment was under the supervision of Mrs. Hazel Burrows and Mrs. Gertrude Festoso and the tea arrangements were looked after by Mrs. Sylvia Sturtevant, Mrs. Pearl McNeese, Mrs. Bertha Moser, Mrs. Esther Prebborne, Mrs. Alice Moore, Mrs. Hazel Conway, Mrs. Elizabeth Moore and Mrs. Esther Decker.

A novel reading by little Gloria Pauline pleased the guests, and also the vocal sections given by Fern Riley, as well as William Riley, the latter who was accompanied by Frances Ayers. Acrobatic stunts were displayed by Masalida Nocera, and a humorous sketch by Edith Cowden, who acted as the office girl; Jane Smith, took the part of the doctor and Jean Riley, the patient. PROGRESS ON POST OFFICE PLANS

INFORMATION from Washington, D. C. yesterday afternoon that the site for the projected new post office here had been selected by the committee of the government, leads to the hope that preliminaries necessary can now be speeded up so that actual construction can get under way.

It has been months since the bids were submitted for the site, and the selection finally made. The site on the public square, while probably not a selection that would please everybody, nevertheless is the one taken by the government, and the thing necessary at this juncture is to get complete co-operation as possible here, so that the acquisition of the site can be completed, and the work speeded along.

There are still two small parcels in the site selected for the post office upon which no bid was made to the government. These will be purchased by the government if a fair price is set, and if a fair price is not given immediately then condemnation proceedings will be started. Owners of these two properties needed should submit their price at once, so as not to needlessly hold up consummation of the site purchase. What New Castle wants is the way speedily cleared so that actual construction can get under way.

ARMORY SEEMS LIKELY

THERE was another significant development for New Castle's progress yesterday. Representatives of the state in the persons of General Albert J. Logan, senior member of the State Armory Board, and Colonel J. W. Woodend, superintendent of State Armories, were in New Castle, and inspected several possible sites for an armory building in New Castle.

The project of providing an armory for Troop F, of this city, has been before the state legislature and official bodies for a long time and the visit of the officers to this city yesterday for the purpose of looking over possible sites, gives rise to the belief that this city is to be one of those selected for armory building projects this year.

Troop F has made an excellent showing during recent years, the civilian committee's work has been outstanding, and all in all, the claims of New Castle for the erection of an adequate armory for the troop are more than justified.

The armory board will meet on October 15, to make a decision, and it is the hope of all interested in Troop F, and New Castle's advancement that the action will be favorable.

COOLIDGE FOR HOOVER

While almost as notable as his famous "I do not choose to run" statement of several years ago, the declaration yesterday of former President Calvin Coolidge that he will not be a candidate for the Republican party nomination for president at the convention next June, and that he believes that President Herbert Hoover should receive the nomination for a second term, was not as unexpected.

There was no other consistent attitude that Coolidge could have taken.

Along with his statement that he would not be a candidate, Mr. Coolidge also announced that he would support Mr. Hoover for a second term and believed that the members of the party should do the same thing.

President Hoover has been at the head of the United States government at a time unparalleled in the history of the world. But, those politicians and would-be leaders who have been placing the blame for all of the economic ills of the world, and all of the troubles of the United States at the feet of the president are liable to discover that they have overplayed. It is likely to be a boomerang. The American people above all, are for fair play. Most citizens realize that conditions the world over are chargeable to no one direct cause or to the conditions of no one country, but to a general world wide after effect of the World War. It was Hoover's fate to be president at a time when problems that have confronted no other president were to be met and for which his policies, nor those of the party he represents were responsible.

Former President Coolidge recognizes this condition, and his support goes to Mr. Hoover in 1932.

A CURIOUS FREAK OF FAME

Mellie Dunham rose to fame because of profitable vaudeville contracts he made after fiddling before Henry Ford. With a small repertoire of old-fashioned dance tunes, after he had passed three score and ten he enjoyed acclaim that a virtuoso might have envied. A rival claimant in the same field, Calvin Coolidge's late Uncle John Wilder, was little impressed by Dunham's ability. Amid the rural haunts of Lake Pennessewasse, where Artemus Ward once lived and laughed, Dunham developed a technique with the violin which Mr. Ford evidently preferred to that of Kreisler, Elman or Spaulding.

If it were true that the world beats a path to the door of the man who makes a better mouse trap, the experience should have come to Mellie Dunham long ago, when he was turning out excellent snowshoes and perfecting a new weave in them. It was this quality of workmanship which won Admiral Peary's patronage when he wore a pair of Dunham shoes on his last Arctic expedition. But fickle fortune ignored the skilled artisan to reserve her honors for the triumphant tour of a musician whose type is passing. Nor was his dramatic rise lacking a touch of pathos. Last year the century-old home in which he lived with his wife was burned to the ground, destroying many prized souvenirs. Only those who know how personal mementoes of this kind are esteemed can understand the sense of loss which afflicted Mellie Dunham and no doubt hastened his death.

That in Chicago when a brass band meets you at the station it may be a band with brass knuckles.
That times are so tough for the blacksmith that all he has to do is shoo flies instead of horses.
That the most ungrateful ticket taker is the one who takes your ticket at the traffic court.
That according to fishermen, the schools of fish are becoming too crowded. It is time they canned a few sour-deans.
That some people will let you believe that they only hold down a job to keep someone else from having to do it.

All Of Us

Women Are the True Believers
Men Pretend
Women Know!

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Women may fuss. Women may complain. Women may go to pieces and cry and cry and cry.
But women are the True Believers. They may lose control of faith and joy, but life goes back into their hearts again, and they wipe their streaming eyes. They go down into the depths. They wander in dark caverns unknown to men, and they seem forever lost. But they find a gleam of light, shining down to them through a tiny crevice in the rocks, and they follow that gleam and they climb upwards again—and come into the sunlight as calmly and as demurely joyous as they had been picking wild flowers in a sweet green meadow. Somehow, they are the True Believers.

I don't know why, but they are. Men aren't like that. A man thinks it all over, or at least, he thinks he thinks. He decides that all is lost for him, that he is defeated, that his high hopes are blocked, and that the black clouds are gathering around his head and the poison of despair seeps into the hinges of his heart.
What can a man do when fate or his own weakness stand in the way? Why, be gloomy, of course. Bow his head and trudge! Snarl! Grit his teeth! Be tough! Stick it out! Follow the grim logic of his cynical decisions. Be a disappointed man to the grave. Stubbornly, that's a man.

But a woman is not like that. All she seeks is a clue, just a shred of a chance to be hopeful again and to believe in life. She is the True Believer. . . . She may not know why she is like that. Nobody knows. It may be because she is the one who brings children into the world and sends the human race onward into the veiled future. She feels a personal obligation, and she is the responsible one. A man may groan and give up and be fretful all his day, but a woman cannot afford such extravagances. She must make a little do, and must make both ends of life meet in a gracious certainty that, some time somehow, all will be well with the Children of Men.

That's what a woman is a True Believer. And that's why, sometimes, a man envies a woman for being what she is.

APPLIED LEARNING

As soon as you have acquired some knowledge what do you do with it?

That knowledge to be of any material benefit must be so much a part of your make-up that you won't have to keep running to the source each time you use it.

There is nothing like a practical use of knowledge to fix in your mind, to incorporate it with your mental equipment.

Teach it, or tell it to someone. Try it out, not once, but many times so that it may become more than mere book knowledge.

Because a real student will want to try out knowledge personally to prove its worth, is one reason why children should be taught the things which can be done at the time that they learn it.

For the youth of high school age there is much in chemistry and in mechanics or physics that can be tested in work at home.

Find out what the children are studying about and let them have an opportunity to experiment at home.

In many cases earning ability is augmented by the use of facts gained through book study, and intelligence becomes practical.

IMAGINARY ILLS

When'er a printed tract I read
Concerning pain and human ills,
By night I always find I need
The recommended course of pills.

When I with doctors chance to be
And hear them glibly talk of buy,
Imagination breeds in me
The very pain they've told about.

Now let them lecture to themselves
Henceforth I shall not seek to know
The secrets on the doctors' shelves.
In ignorance I'd rather go.

I'm done with "spots before the eyes!"
And twinges 'neath the shoulder blade.
This thinking I am symptom-wise
A nervous wreck of me has made.

I've learned my lesson! I am sure.
From past experiences I read,
The ills most difficult to cure
Were those I merely thought I had.

SOME NEW YORK SHOWS

The "Hints and Dintsman" business took him a short distance below the Mason and Dixon line and along the Atlantic coast up to New York last week. We had heard a lot about certain shows on the boarder there and thought it a good idea to go and see some of them, and tell the folks back home about them. The depression is fierce in the show business in New York. One could hardly get a ticket to many of the shows at $5.00 a copy. The crowds try to get the pastboards was dense. By hook or crook we managed to get tickets to five of them, as follows:

The old style of undressing for bed with the hooks and eyes and the modern way of just jumping out of clothes were shown. A new version of the meeting of Adam and Eve was shown and this episode was entirely different than we had ever heard of or dreamed of before, but seemed natural enough. Change In Golf Ball Seen As Tribute To The Duffer.

While The Press Comments In Facetious Vein. The Popularity Of The Game And The Importance Of The Dub As Its Chief Support Is Recognized

Promise of another change in the specifications of the standard golf ball, beginning next spring, is received by the world, and especially by the United States, where the device originated, with much mock sympathy and some speculation as to the effect of the new ball on the duffer's score. It is believed that the new weight will improve the "balloon" pellet which has caused such complaint during its brief life.

"The action of the officials of the United States Golf Association in giving heed to the complaints against the balloon ball," according to the ROANOK TIMES, "shows that it is realized that the duffer is entitled to consideration. He makes the splendid courses, ornate clubhouse and high-salaried professionals possible for him is the chap who foots the bills. Once let him lose his interest in golf and the game would cease to hold the major place it now occupies among the sports of the nation."

After all, agrees the BUFFALO EVENING NEWS, the duffer represents the strength of the organized game. The official ball must be to their liking or it will not be accepted. They have no fear of a Wickersham commission on bootlegging in golf balls. The Evening News feels that the balloon ball "has added several strokes to the scores of the common run of golfers, because of its strange behavior in the wind and on the green." The PROVIDENCE JOURNAL suspects that the new ball furnished a convenient alibi for a good many golfers and gave them a new topic of conversation as well as a ground for bitter complaint. It is convinced, however, that "to understand the certainties or probabilities of a golf ball's conduct under any circumstance it is necessary to have a pretty good knowledge of the laws of ballistics and the principle of the trajectory."

Apparently the Golf Association adapted the new ball," thinks the GREEN BAY PRESS-GAZETTE, "as a conciliatory move to the duffers," but that paper advises that time will tell just how conciliatory it was. It feels sure that "from observation and from actual experience in the locker-room gossip in the city of the duffers have had a bad year. The JERSEY CITY JOURNAL points out that what the average duffer would like to see produced is a golf ball that will make him keep his head down, come back slowly, keep his left arm straight, pivot correctly and force him to follow through without having to think about all those things and half a dozen others at the same time. The Journal advises that when such a ball is made, the duffer will agree that it is perfect—maybe—since this answer will depend on the score he made on the particular day his opinion is solicited.

Woman Secretary Takes Up Duties

Mrs. Alice Liveright, Philadelphia, Is New Secretary Of State Welfare

THIRD WOMAN TO BE IN CABINET

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, Sept. 30.—Mrs. Alice Liveright, prominent Philadelphia welfare worker, today took over direction of the state welfare department following her appointment to the post of Gov. Gifford Pinchot late yesterday.

The new secretary of welfare is the third woman during the last three administrations to hold office. Dr. Ellen C. Potter headed the department during the first Pinchot regime and Mrs. E. Grace McCauley held the office during the Fisher administration.

Mrs. Liveright was appointed deputy secretary of welfare on September 14 last and was named assistant secretary pending appointment of a successor to John L. Hanna, of Franklin.

Selection of Mrs. Liveright brings the cabinet to its full strength. Hanna resigned to become secretary of property and supplies, the office vacated by James F. Malone, of Pittsburgh, who chose resignation rather than endorse Charles C. McGovern in the latter's campaign for nomination as Allegheny county commissioner.

Observations In 7th Ward

The "stop" sign at the intersection of North Cedar and East Clayton streets is in need of repair. A heavy wind, a near sighted automobile driver or a rambunctious child may be responsible for the appearance of the sign. It is hanging sideways.

It is usually the business of the seventh ward firemen to extinguish fires but the other day they revised the practice and tried to keep one going—but in spite of their efforts, it died down and out. The weather became warmer and so they didn't bother much about the furnace fire's idiosyncrasies. Fire is just naturally embarrassed in the presence of firemen.

Loud "moos" and "baas" can often be heard in the North Liberty street district and curious passers-by have found that they come from cows and sheep traveling a la box car on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad. It isn't always cows and sheep making the noises either. Some very strange animals can be seen and heard going through the city in the box cars.

Schools Seek To Cure Children Of Defective Speech

Stuttering Twice As Common Among Boys As Girls

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Eighty school systems in the United States now employ special teachers for children suffering from speech defects, the Department of the Interior announces in a statement issued by the Office of Education.

Defective speech, twice as common among boys as girls, is not an indication of inferior ability, Dr. F. F. Rogers, health specialist, declares. The statement follows in full text.

If Jimmy and Betty slip or stutter it should not be taken for granted that the speech defect denotes an inferior native ability. "Many historically-famous figures have suffered from vocal impediments," among whom were Leigh Hunt, Charles Kingsley, Charles I. Demosthenes, Aristotle, Aescop, Alcibiades, Cato, Virgil, Manzoni, Erasmus, Malherbe, Turenne, Boyle, Priestly, Lamb, Erasmus Darwin, Charles Darwin, Moses Mendelssohn, Cardon, Camille Desmoulins, and the artist, David.

Binet tests of children with speech defects in schools of St. Paul, Minn., have shown that such children were neither duller nor brighter than other children, and it is only because the stammering or stuttering child can not display normality his native ability that he has often been considered of low mentality.

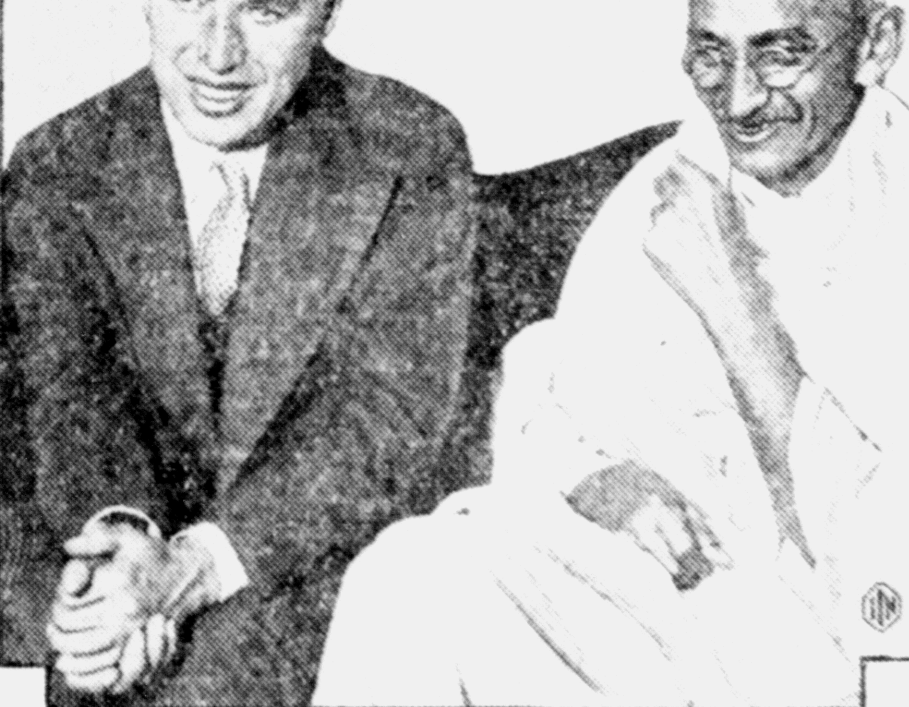

What is America doing to help this type of handicapped youth? A survey revealed that 80 school systems now employ special teachers to give attention to speech-defective boys and girls.

Speech defects, especially stuttering, are at least twice as common among boys as girls. They are also about twice as frequent in the Negro as in the white race. Liping tends to cure itself or is overcome by a considerable percentage of school children as they grow older, but the tendency to spontaneous cure of stuttering at school age is very light, and not a few cases develop during school life.

British Cabinet Drafts Manifesto As To Elections

King George Requests Premier MacDonald To Argue Against Election

SEEKS FORMULA TO GAIN SUPPORT

MacDonald's Political Status Is Somewhat Uncertain In England Today

By OTTO D. TOLISCHUS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Sept. 30.—At the behest of King George, prime minister MacDonald argued with the cabinet again today against an election, but appeared to be losing ground in efforts to avoid an early dissolution of parliament.

As a result of frequent formal meetings and private conversations among members of the cabinet, a manifesto was being drafted to announce the government's attitude regarding an election.

Seeking Formula
Pending this official announcement, the prime minister was trying to arrive at a formula which will assure the national government support of both conservative and liberal members of the cabinet if an election is ordered.

Some process in this direction was made when the party leaders tentatively agreed not to emphasize the tariff issue in the forthcoming manifesto. This would make it possible for the question to be discussed in the campaign without committing the anti-tariff block in the cabinet to a policy they have opposed heretofore.

One proposal made by the prime minister was for parliament to adjourn next Tuesday until the next regular meeting early in November, thus giving the present government another month to deal with the nation's economic problems before electing a new parliament.

Delay Is Opposed
The conservatives opposed the delay, however, declaring they were unwilling to carry on without a direct mandate from the people.

Although still backed by the crown and possessing a large popular following, MacDonald's political status was rendered somewhat uncertain today by his expulsion from the labor party, which he helped to organize 38 years ago and whose fortunes he directed during two terms as prime minister.

The laborite National executive committee, preparing for an anticipated election, adopted resolutions reading MacDonald out of the party because of his relationship of the emergency government.

President Hoover May Be Host To French-German Joint Delegation

Premier Pierre Laval of France Is Said to Have Requested Inclusion of German Statesmen in Invitation to White House for Conference on World Problems During October.

The unusual spectacle of German and French statesmen acting in concert for the common good may be witnessed in Washington, D. C., this month—if there is any truth in the rumor now going the rounds in Berlin. Premier Pierre Laval of France, who is visiting Germany with Foreign Minister Aristide Briand, is said to have communicated with Paul Claudel, French Ambassador to the United States, asking him to sound out the United States Government on its willingness to include Chancellor Heinrich Brüning and other German statesmen in the invitation which it sent to Laval to visit Washington this autumn to confer with President Hoover on international financial problems. This gesture may be another step towards cementing the two—believed irreconcilable—nations in a bond of friendship. Laval and his conferees received a tremendous ovation when they arrived in Berlin. They were the first French statesmen to be received by President Von Hindenburg since the war and the friendly treatment accorded them in the German capital may have been the cause of the reported gesture of amity offered by France. Plans for the rumored joint delegation to the United States are believed to have been discussed at a dinner in honor of the French visitors given by Dr. Julius Curtius, Germany's Foreign Minister.

Estelle Taylor Fails To Recognize Divorce Obtained By Dempsey

Screen Actress Appearing In Cleveland, Says "I Feel Very Much Married Yet"

Takes Deep Interest In Former Heavyweight Champion—Wants California Divorce

By JAMES L. KILGALLAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 30.—Estelle Taylor still feels, she said, in an interview today, that she is "very much married" to Jack Dempsey. The Reno divorce decree the former champion obtained ten days ago is in her eyes only "a scrap of paper."

Not that she wants to hold Jack. On the contrary, she is just as eager that he should have his freedom as he is, but, she insists, they must be divorced in California, their legal residence. Her California counter suit for divorce, charging cruelty, will come up for preliminary hearing within six days.

Has No Boy Friend
Seated in the star's dressing room at a local theatre where she is headlining in vaudeville, Miss Taylor discussed her private affairs candidly with an International News Service reporter. She laughed at the suggestion that it was now perfectly alright for her to go out with a "boy friend" and replied: "I haven't got one and, anyway, I feel just as married as ever."

"I am just as interested in what is happening to Jack as before he obtained that Reno decree," she said. "I feel that Jack's troubles and cares are mine."

Miss Taylor fears Dempsey is going to fight again and regrets that he is contemplating another big fight.

"I am afraid Jack Dempsey is going to have another big fight," she said. "I think he will have another fight even if he knew he would be killed."

Worth About Million.
Dempsey is worth "about a million dollars," according to Miss Taylor's estimate. She does not know exactly because she "never tried to handle his money affairs."

Miss Taylor's legal battle in California will not center upon the money question. She made it plain today that she is not after his money. "She detests the term 'gold digger'."

What she wants from the California courts is her freedom and the $100,000 Los Angeles home she claims Dempsey gave to her. Nothing more.

There is no rumor in Miss Taylor's demeanor when she discusses her broken romance.

Is Independent.
"I'm rather independent person," Miss Taylor said. "I can take care of myself financially. Always did. Jack never told me what he did with his money and I never attempted to handle his business matters."

"I admit I did not approve of the manner in which he tossed his money away. I did not like the type of men he associated with. I long felt—and still feel—that wrong companions were and are the greatest menace to Jack Dempsey's future."

Must Donate Sites For State Armory

Property Owners Deluge Civilian Committee With Offers Of Land

Members of Troop F's Civilian Committee are answering inquiries of property owners in the city and county by declaring that sites on which the state expects to build a National Guard armory here must be donated before the building can be built.

Following the announcement in The News yesterday that General Albert J. Logan senior member of the State Armory Board, and Colonel J. W. Woodend, supervisor of state armories, had arrived here to inspect sites for Troop F's new armory, numerous inquiries were made by property owners who wished to dispose of their properties.

The civilian committee announced today that the state demands a donation of a site before it will construct an armory. Yesterday the visiting officers, escorted by the committee, of which Louis B. Round is chairman, inspected three sites.

The Armory Board will meet in Harrisburg Oct. 15 when the local sites will be considered. If a site donated here is passed and all preliminary preparations completed, a matter on which the local sponsors of the National Guard cavalry troop have worked many months, it is expected that the state will begin immediate construction of a building which will house stables, administration offices and other departments of a modern military post.

Buildings On Site Taken For Post Office Have Long History

Post Office At One Time Was Located In Building On Site

History Of Several Of Buildings Is Recalled By Residents Today

Selection of the properties at the Southwest corner of the Public Square as the site for the new post office of this city brings up some interesting facts concerning the site selected.

It will be of interest for the people of the city to know that in reality that the post office when completed and in use, will be located on the same site that was once used for the same purpose.

This was in 1879 or 1880 according to Councilman L. D. Genkinger, who remembers of going to the post office when located in those years in the third story of the Cunningham block property and is now occupied by a restaurant. David Tidball was postmaster at the time.

Another interesting fact little known is that the Cunningham heirs property on the corner of Jefferson and Washington streets, was the second three story building to ever grace the main business street or in fact any street of the city.

Back something like seventy-five years or more, the entire block included in the site was the property jointly of the late R. W. Cunningham and Shubel Wilder, the latter being the father of Mrs. Mary E. Clark, who resides at the corner of Washington street and North Diamond Way, a part of the site.

The owners divided the property, the three story building at the eastern side of the block and adjacent to Jefferson street, going to Mr. Cunningham and the balance to Mr. Wilder. The Cunningham property has remained in the possession of that family ever since.

In the two rooms now occupied by the Cripps Hardware Company away back something like seventy years ago the late L. S. Hoyt and a man named Raymond and the son-in-law of the late Colonel Daniel Leasure had a dry goods concern. A man named Emery, a relative of the late Judge Emery, had a grocery store in the third room away back.

William Norris, father of the late Edwin Norris also had a grocery store in the building at one time. The MacNab & Horton Hardware company was one time located in the building, as was the feed store of Fisher and Mengle and numerous other business enterprises in the past twenty-five years.

The Salvation Army had the third floor of the Cunningham building as a headquarters for many years after starting here more than forty-five years ago.

Parts of the Wilder property have changed hands a number of times. David Horner operated a hotel on a part of the present Cunningham heirs property between the present Cunningham heirs and Clark property for many years. In the past century Joseph Kenna purchased this hotel property in 1901 and operated a hotel there. The late James Gunning acquired the property on which the present Cunningham Block is located in 1907. Mr. Gunning for many years operated a grocery store in a part of the property now owned by this property now belongs to Mrs. Elizabeth A. McCormick and other heirs.

Mrs. Mary E. Clark has resided in her present home for fifty-two years. Shubel Wilder, her father, was one of the original owners of the entire square. She also owns a building immediately adjoining a home and occupied as a carbohouse.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 30.—Sought since he escaped two days ago by leaping through a train window enroute to the Atlanta penitentiary, Arthur "Hunk" Ambrose, sentenced from Erie, was believed to have evaded police a second time today.

Patrolmen Francis Hugh and Carl Williams reported seeing Ambrose and a companion riding in an automobile in the Hill District here as the two officers were making their calls to the station house.

One of the policemen leaped for the automobile but the car sped away. The other officer notified headquarters and scout cars were ordered to be on the lookout for the fugitive.

Uncle Sam Ends First Quarter Of Fiscal Year With $400,000,000 Deficit

CONGRESS WILL BE GIVEN FACTS

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Uncle Sam ended today the first quarter of what is expected will be the leanest financial year in history, with a deficit of close to $400,000,000 compared with a surplus of about $32,300,000 in 1930.

Barring tax increases there will be an excess of expenditures over receipts of probably $1,500,000,000. Even with tax increases the budget cannot be balanced without borrowing because of the enormous current deficit.

There is no assurance the administration will go to congress with a concrete tax program. In some circles it was believed Secretary Mellon, and possibly President Hoover, would point out to congress in their annual report and annual message the serious financial situation of the government, the inadequacy of revenue under the present taxing law, the inadvisability of the continuation of the unbalanced budget, and the necessity for curtailment of appropriations.

Duty Defeats Love

SHANGHAI, Sept. 30.—Bound on a five day expedition into China's worst flooded area, Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh arrived at Hankow today from Wuhan, according to word received by Shanghai authorities.

The Lindberghs took off from Nanking yesterday and reached Wuhan after an eight hour flight on the Yangtze river. They remained at Wuhan overnight.

From Hankow the Lindberghs planned to make a series of flights over the flooded area, this being the third aerial survey Col. Lindbergh has made for the Chinese government. They were accompanied by Hankow Dr. Broese van Groenou, expert of the League of Nations.

"TAPERING OFF" STREETS

Council in Session Tuesday, Superintendent of the department of streets today stated that the employees of the department are "tapering off" dirt streets.

His duty as a citizen was stronger with Frank Everett, prosperous New York merchant, than his love for his son. So he signed a grand larceny complaint against the youth, Emmett Everett (above), 24, which may result in sending the young criminal to Sing Sing for the rest of his life. If Emmett is found guilty, it will be mandatory on the judge to sentence him to life, for he already has been convicted of grand larceny three times.

Patrolmen Francis Hugh and Carl Williams reported seeing Ambrose and a companion riding in an automobile in the Hill District here as the two officers were making their calls to the station house.

One of the policemen leaped for the automobile but the car sped away. The other officer notified headquarters and scout cars were ordered to be on the lookout for the fugitive.

Response Of Business To Heavy Wage Cutting Is Much Disputed Issue

Stewart Finds Conflicting Reactions Among Political Leaders To Downward Trend Of Price Levels

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—The steel industry's recent 10 per cent wage slash not only is not the first that any industry has made since the depression set in; it is not the deepest.

However, it affects the greatest number of workers at once. It is an open-and-above-board slash, whereas most of those which have preceded it have been disguised in one way or another. And unquestionably it will be accepted by more employers, as an example to be imitated.

In brief, it is widely admitted in official circles in Washington that the steel trade's action probably marks the beginning of a general crumbling in the resistance hitherto offered by organized labor, with President Hoover's strong encouragement, to a reduction of wages in accordance with what is described as the new commodity price level.

How business will respond to the wage trend downward is a vehemently disputed issue.

Curiously enough the group which has most strenuously opposed a reduction in the size of pay envelopes consists by no means wholly of the folk best known as defenders of labor's interests, but numbers also a quite conspicuous sprinkling of individuals usually classed among the hardest-boiled of conservatives. On the other side, not indeed, actually in favor of lower wages, but at least speaking of them as inevitable, are several public men with notable records as liberals; even radicals.

Does very high pay, by giving the masses a large buying power, make for commercial prosperity?—or—is the country's economic balance so disturbed by disproportionately high wages, paid to certain classes of labor, that other large classes suffer with hard times as a consequence?

For example, Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, who frankly calls himself an ultra-conservative, while progressives refer to him as an out-and-out reactionary, in a conversation I had with him a fortnight or two ago, said:

"Above everything, wages must be maintained."

"This country, greatly to its own advantage, is upon a very high price level. It is of the first importance to support that level by very highly paid labor."

About the same time Senator Lynn J. Prazier of North Dakota, an outstanding progressive, told me: "Industrial labor simply cannot continue to receive war wages with everything else deflated. Unemployment is the inevitable result of attempting it."

"Conspicuously in the transportation field an enormous proportion of workers are idle though the railroad men who do hold their jobs still draw pay at pre-deflation figures. In my opinion a moderate all-around reduction would have been, on the average, much better."

In opposition to Senator Prazier's view, Senator James Couzens of Michigan contends that labor never did receive its just due.

"If the workingman had been fairly paid when commodity prices were at their peak," it might be verily said, "it might be verily said that he ought to be paid with a cut as the cost of living begins to decline, but he was not fairly paid. The advent of the depression proved it. Times tightened because of the inadequacy of the masses' purchasing power. An equitable balance might be established by the continuance of peak wages, with declining living costs; not by wage reduction to match reduced prices of life's requirements."

Representative Percy E. Quinn of Mississippi, one of congress' foremost economic authorities, shakes his head, however, at the suggestion that wage inflation, as a means of maintaining or recovering prosperity is a practical proposition.

"High wages are a fine thing," he agrees, "for particular industries which are directly dependent on them, but to expect them to remain long above the normal general price level is to expect the impossible, even if desirable."

Perhaps it is significant that farm spokesmen (Senator Prazier from the northern wheat belt and Representative Quinn from the southern cotton area), who may attribute agriculture's prolonged distress to the correspondingly prolonged inflation of urban industry are less perturbed at the latter's deflation, in turn, than those of the type of the factory-trained Senator Couzens and of Senator Watson, traditional guardians of the National Association of Manufacturers' interests.

At any rate, agriculture's plaint, of being compelled to sell in a deflated market and buy in an inflated one, is of a decade's standing.

The idea that labor's present troubles are largely due to the farmers' inability to buy normally for so extended a period also evidently was in both Senator Prazier's and Representative Quinn's minds at the time they expressed themselves as quoted above, which was before the cut in steel wages.

It is evident, at all events, that the prospect of a wage readjustment to a lower index level is not unanimously regarded as certain to make bad times worse.

On the contrary, there is a school of thought (and not altogether reactionary thought) which foresees an improvement in it.

It must be confessed that it is an improvement which seems to be predicated upon an anticipation that urban labor will be brought part way down to the level of agriculture, in order to enable agriculture to lift itself up to the level of urban labor.

Safe, Sane Reduction Is Possible

Dr. Clendening Explains Fundamentals Of Dieting

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

"Many popular reduction diets are notoriously inadequate. Some of them are decidedly injurious, opening the door to neurosis of one kind or another, tuberculosis, other infections, anemia and general ill health."

This is a paragraph from a chairman's address at the meeting of the American Medical Association in Philadelphia last June. There were a number of papers on diet presented at the meeting. When they contain matter of interest to my readers they will be reviewed in this column.

The paragraph quoted is a good text for a preachment. I have listened to several groups of women talking about reducing diets lately. A remark frequently repeated was: "Why, I read a reducing diet in so-and-so's book, and there are enough things there for anybody to eat."

Another: "All I have to do to reduce is to eat nothing but lamb chops and pineapple."

These two samples, exhibit such a complete lack of any real knowledge of the subject that it may be worth while to analyze the principles of reduction diets.

Stripped of all complications, a reduction diet must have three fundamentals:

1. System.

2. Balance.

3. Measurements.

1. System—A system means a policy. Besides including balance and measurements, your system for reducing must include time. The trouble with the woman who was going to reduce on lamb chops and pineapples is that she can only do so a week or so. Then she begins to desire other things. If people really need to reduce they must continue the system a long time.

2. Balance—Reduction diets do not differ in any essential way from other healthy diets, except in amounts. All the elements necessary for a healthy, normal diet must therefore be included in the reduction diet: you must have protein, fuel, water, minerals, vitamins and bulk. You need as much of everything as a person on a normal diet does, except food. And as fuel is made up in the food by starches, sugars (together called carbohydrates) and fats, these elements are lessened in the reducing diet.

3. Measurements—The woman who said the reducing diets she read about had enough to eat for anybody, forgot how much there was of each food. The most important thing in reducing diets is the amount. You cannot get a list of foods and eat them and call that a reducing diet. You must weigh and measure them also.

How all this is done we will explain in the articles this week.

LOOKING BACK IN NEW CASTLE

The year 1851 was rather eventful in the history of New Castle. There were a number of things of more than ordinary importance that occurred that year. One was a meeting held in March to consider the question of enlarging the boundaries of the borough. Warren Carpenter was president and William Watson, secretary, while the committee on resolutions consisted of Joseph Justice, Joseph Emery, S. W. Mitchell, Samuel Spiese, Joseph Kissick and William Moore. After ample discussion, a series of resolutions were adopted opposed to any extension of the limits of the borough beyond the Shenango river and the Neshannock creek.

The first railway meeting held in the city took place on April 1, 1851. It was called for the purpose of testing the public sentiment in regard to the then proposed Erie and Pittsburgh Railway. The officers of the meeting were: President, Henry Pearson; vice-presidents, R. W. Cunningham, William Dickson, W. Cunningham, Thomas Falls; Joseph Emery and Alexander Newell and C. Cossitt. The speakers were R. B. McComb, Esq., R. W. Cunningham and Joseph Emery.

Timely Reminders Are Given Farmers

Timely suggestions to farmers on per care is much more likely to be profitable.

Provide Bull Pen—Every dairy farm should have a bull pen. Ease and safety of handling are thus assured and the health and vigor of the bull are benefited.

Kill Late Weeds—By cultivating the garden late in the season some weeds start to grow so late that they are winter-killed before they can go to seed.

Spread Lime Now—Lime put on the soil in the fall is best for the crops which follow and saves extra labor in the spring.

Store Apples Properly—Oiled paper wrappers help to prevent storage scald of apples, and shredded oiled paper distributed through the pack is practically as good. Proper maturity and prompt storage at low temperatures also are important.

Save Vegetables—By storing vegetables this fall you can cut down the grocery bill next winter. Factors favoring successful storage are a favorable temperature, good ventilation, size of bins, racks, good drainage, cleanliness, ease of access to the storage and the condition of the crops stored.

Hens Need Good Care—In order to lay well a hen must have comfortable quarters. Hens may live and lay some eggs when kept in a poorly constructed house, but a flock kept in a good house and given proper care is much more likely to be profitable.

Need Good Management—Efficient management of men and money contributes to the success of farmers' cooperative organizations, a un-

Break Ground For Memorial To Washington

Will Reconstruct Old Fort Necessity And Erect Statue At Great Meadows

FIRST STEP IN BIG CELEBRATION

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Sept. 30.—A chromium plated spade in the hands of Col. Frederick H. Payne, acting secretary of war, struck into the soil of Fort Necessity that was first red-embled by the blood of American soldiers in the outbreak of the French and Indian war, signaled the beginning of a memorial to George Washington at the site of his baptism of fire, Great Meadows, near here, and marked the first act of the bicentennial celebration of his birth. As a part of this national program the function was broadcast throughout the United States. Thousands of citizens of Pennsylvania and nearby states lined the great natural bowl where on July 3, 1754, George Washington with a handful of continental soldiers from Virginia and South Carolina, stood off more than four times the number of allied French and Indians and subsequently withdrew with all the honors of war. The movement to memorialize that event has the support of congress, of the state of Pennsylvania and the leading patriotic orders of the nation.

Bloom is Speaker. The principal speaker of the day was Congressman Sol Bloom of New York, associate director of the United States George Washington Bicentennial commission. "In this place," he said, "George Washington opened the eyes of the world to North America and stirred two great nations to possess it. Here he first inspired the colonies to possess it for themselves.

"Where we now stand a boy of 22 changed the map of the world and altered the course of history. To this point we may trace all the threads of influence that culminated in the war of the Revolution. Here, in reality, began the United States of America. Here, in a forge of fire, was welded the courage and character of the man who chiefly made us what we are."

On the site of this battle field, amid the quiet hills of western Pennsylvania a monument to the father of his country is to be erected to be dedicated one year hence. The site has been acquired by the state and will be a perpetual park and memorial.

Launch Scouting For Polish Boys

Group Of Churchmen Sponsoring Move; Name Harry Jermakowicz To Lead

The Polish boys of the city are launching scout work in certain communities. Last night a meeting of a group of men of the Holy Trinity (Polish National Catholic) church was held, with Rev. R. Jakubowski presiding and a troop organization group was effected. The troop committee chosen consisted of Messrs. Marcel Miksa, Antoni Szamrej, Antoni Kik and Theodore Lekawski. These men will probably add another member to the committee later. They also named Harry Jermakowicz as scoutmaster-to-be, and Alfonso Szamrej as assistant scoutmaster.

The group will hold another meeting Tuesday evening, October 6 at the rectory of the Holy Trinity church to complete the application for charter, and get the necessary overhead work done before calling boy meetings.

Scouting is one way in which the community can serve boys of all creeds and nationalities. The local work here is being made possible through the Community Chest.

LETTERS TO THE NEWS

Letters Intended For This Column Must Be Signed With Name And Address Of Writer

New Castle, Pa., Sept. 29, 1931.

Editor New Castle News:—

Has the United States a constitution any more? As we study the constitution we notice that it is being violated right and left by legislators, public men and officials. I will give only one of the many in which it is being done—this is in relation to fire arms article 2 of the 10 first amendments to the constitution which reads: A well regulated militia being necessary to the security of a free state, the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed.

Now every clear minded man knows that a lately passed law forbidding the citizen carrying a gun is an infringement of his constitutional rights and also a violation of the constitution of the United States. But this is not the worst of it, for those who are back of this movement will never attempt to disarm Al Capone and all the rest of that class of criminals; therefore it is perfectly clear what the real object of the movement is.

Democrat Wins In Missouri To Give Party Tie

Missouri Democrat Wins Election To Congress —Makes 214 Democrats In House

JOHNSON SUCCEEDS LATE SAM MAJOR

(International News Service) SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Sept. 30.—With the national political spotlight turned on it, the Seventh Congressional District of Missouri today swept Robert D. Johnson, Democrat, into the House of Representatives by an unprecedented majority of more than 9,000 votes. Unofficial returns from 230 of the district's 241 precincts early today showed Johnson leading his Republican opponent by 9,104 votes. The count was Johnson 26,115; John W. Palmer, Republican, 17,011; and L. L. Collins, Independent anti-prohibitionist, 3,589.

National significance was attached to the election by reason of the fact that Johnson's choice by the voters of his district gives the Democrats in the House of Representatives 214 seats, exactly the same number as are held by the Republicans. The House also has one Farmer-Labor representative.

The question of which party will organize the House in the Seventy-second Congress will be decided by voters in six additional special elections throughout the country to be held before November 3 when the new Congress convenes.

The Missouri election was held to choose a successor to the late Representative Sam C. Major.

Kidnap Scare Stirs Seventh Ward While Firemen Respond

Frantic when two neighborhood boys raced into her home last night and told a story of the kidnapping of her boy by two older boys, Mrs. Elizabeth Quarto of 532 West Cherry street, Seventh Ward, excitedly summoned help by calling for "the wagon."

The call, intended for the police was received by fire headquarters instead, and No. 7 firemen responded hurriedly with their triple combination, chemical, hose, and pump truck. The chief's car with Captain Craig and Fireman Hartland arrived also.

Meanwhile the neighborhood heard the story of the two boys, Bobby Calbert of 518 West Cherry and Walter Peterson of 513 West Cherry.

Both had started out with James Quarto, 11, from his home at the corner grocery store. At Lafayette

WILKIN'S SUB WILL BE SUNK IN NORTH SEA

U. S. Government Gives Permission For Sinking Of Vessel

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Permission to sink the submarine Nautilus in the North Sea, off the coast of Norway, was granted to Sir Hubert Wilkins by the Shipping Board.

The board consented that Wilkins take the vessel that carried him to the Arctic for an under-ice expedition out to deep water and scrap it instead of returning it to this country.

Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams was consulted after Wilkins sought permission to scrap the boat about three weeks ago. First denied permission, he explained to the board he considered it dangerous to attempt the ocean crossing.

The old submarine was transferred from the Navy Department to the Shipping Board in order that the latter agency might charter it to Lake Danonhow, Inc., New London, Conn., backers of the Wilkins expedition. It was doomed to be scrapped at that time.

Secretary Adams said "it would appear that any method of selling or scrapping the vessel outside the United States would be attended by certain difficulties." He added he could see no objection from a navy standpoint to sinking the vessel in deep water.

CONTEST EVENTS KEY UP CITY'S SCOUTING ARMY

Boys Look Ahead To October 17 Field Rally; Troop Contest Opens

Two important events for local and county scouts are rapidly approaching the start of the county-wide troop contest, (lasting three months) which begins on this coming Thursday, and the annual fall rally and roundup for north district troops; including New Castle, Bessemer, New Bedford and New Wilmington.

Bound To Stimulate Scout already know pretty well the conditions of the troop contest, which is designed to stimulate advancement, attendance and good turn work. Each troop scribe makes the report of his troop's meeting on a specially prepared postcard, and sends it in to the local office. Points gained in the rally and roundup, in good turn work, and in troop promotion, also count. There are two trophies, the "high per scout" held by New Castle Fifteen of the First Christian church and the "High total" held by Wampum No. 1. All registered troops in good standing will count points starting October 1.

Annual Rally Due The annual rally consists of a procession of field events calculated to show how the troops shape up in certain phases of scout activity; most of being based on second and first class work. There will be events in tent pitching, firemaking by friction, a time contest in water boiling, signalling and first aid contests, and the troop inspection; the athletic ability being represented in the "fireman's carry relay."

The rally will be held at the George Washington Junior high school playgrounds on Saturday afternoon, October 17, the events starting promptly at 2:30 o'clock. All troops desiring to take part are asked to be on the field at that time; so the events may be run off as rapidly as possible. Winners will be awarded medals except in troop inspection, fireman's carry relay and winning troop, where troop awards will be made. The general public is cordially invited to attend this rally; there being no admission charged.

Cab Driver And Passenger Hurt In Pittsburgh

Striking Cab Drivers Hurl Missiles At Cab, Causing Crash Into Phone Pole

POLICEMAN BURNED BY TENSION WIRE

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Sept. 30.—A taxi-cab driver and his passenger were recovering in a hospital today, a policeman was confined to his home, and two persons were under arrest, following a riot which broke up a meeting of striking cab drivers in the basement of old St. Patrick's church here.

A tear gas bomb, hurled from a passing car into the church basement, sent some 500 drivers into the street. As they milled out, a cab driven by Florence A. Barnes and occupied by Patrick Swift, 40, drove past and was volleyed with missiles by the striking drivers. The cab swerved, crashing into a pole and snapping a high tension electric wire.

Policeman John J. Lyons, who rushed to the scene, was burned when he attempted to remove the wire and was taken home after treatment at a hospital. Barnes and Swift were taken to the West Penn hospital with head and back injuries.

Police crews who hurried to the scene arrested Thomas Corry, 35, and William H. Funk in connection with the attack on Barnes' cab.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

Discipline On Sunday Is Problem

Religious Educator Is Worried By Young Rough-necks

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education, Cleveland College Western Reserve University

A director of religious education said to me the other day that he was distressed about the problem of conduct in the Sunday school. Over and over again we have heard it said that with the proper kind of teaching in the Sunday school there would be no discipline problem. I think I have practically said so in this column. I repeat.

Although trained teachers for the Sunday school would greatly improve child behavior there, some children who are sent to Sunday school would not respond well to the best methods of teaching. They had never learned the alphabet of restraint at home.

As the gentleman referred to said, "Some of the children seem to have no regard for property; they shamefully abuse the furniture, hymnals, and even the Bibles. If any effort is exercised to restrain them they may be found to be sons of some of the officials of the church."

If my observations are correct, the young roughnecks of Sunday school are more often found in the churches of the well-to-do communities than in those of communities of lower economic levels, and all too often the offender is a child of some church pillar.

Whether he is or not, the problem of the boy who has little or no regard for property or others' rights often is a nuisance in the Sunday school. Such a lad may receive at Sunday school more bad than good training, since he there can enjoy being a social nuisance, even interrupting public worship. If he comes from a favored home he would do less harm to others and himself if he stayed home and limited his destruction and annoying activities to his own house and playground. His parents should not burden the Sunday school with him.

For the welfare of society it is too bad that such a child had not in earlier years learned some basic inhibitions.

Incidentally some wholesome early restraints are essential to effectual religious education. The child who while grace is said at the table, does not habitually exercise a reverent attitude, is learning not only to mock religion, but is learning to become a bad citizen. The child who habitually is a hoodlum in the Sunday school is getting even there good elementary training for crime.

Religious attitudes pre-suppose some self-restraints, and the absence of reasonable inhibition during religious exercises makes religious training for the offending child not only dangerous to his morals, but to the morals of the other children there.

I wish more of the pillars of the church were to be concerned about the conduct of their chips and splinters. Day school teachers and Sunday school teachers would like to see more children taught in early years at home the A. B. C's of reasonable restraint. Neither should the public school or Sunday school have to play the place of a reformatory.

What do you think concerning it?

A majority of the students who escaped from the blazing "frat" house were from Pennsylvania, Ohio and Massachusetts.

PARASITE'S SEX RATIO
(International News Service)
NEW HAVEN, Conn. — The sex ratio of the Oriental peach moth parasite was discovered to be upset by temperatures below 40 degrees. With continued low readings the male of the species sprout, while the females fail to hatch. The discovery was made by Dr. Philip Garman and John C. Schread, of the Connecticut Agricultural experiment station. For an equal number of eggs, about three males hatch for one female, under submission to cold temperatures. The discovery was made when the parasites were placed in a refrigerator for storage until needed to combat the peach moth pest.

CENSUS PUZZLES TOWN
MILFORD, Utah, Sept. 30.—Local residents are a bit puzzled over the local census report, which shows there are 1,013 married men and only 1,002 married women in Beaver county, Utah. The best explanation given locally is that the women were across the line visiting in Arizona when the census taker called.

Perry Township One Of Original Thirteen

Perry township is in the extreme southeast corner of Lawrence county, was one of the thirteen original townships in the county.

A large portion of Perry township lies in what was once known as the "Chew district." Benjamin Chew of Philadelphia had secured a tract of land in the southern part of what is now Lawrence county, including portions of Big Beaver, Wayne, Shenango, Slippery Rock and Perry townships. It was surveyed into four-hundred-acre tracts and each settler was to have half the land for settling. The balance was sold at a small price and in quantities to suit purchasers. The Chew tract was four or five miles wide and eight to ten miles long.

When the territory in Western Pennsylvania was first surveyed, a body consisting of eight tracts of four hundred acres each, was put down on the surveyor's map as "designated lands" or not fit for settlement. These became known as the "eight tracts" a name which was retained for a great many years, and were located principally in what is now the northern part of Perry township. As these lands were equal if not superior to many in the township, it is possible that the surveyors, with an instinctive knowledge of their future value, reported them in the manner they did in order to deceive settlers, and sometime settle on or speculate in the tracts themselves. But if such were their designs, they were speedily frustrated when the settlers began to come in and choose these tracts first of all.

About the year 1796, Matthew Murray settled on tract No. 4, two hundred acres, and was the first settler on the place. The old homestead stood for many years, later passing into the hands of Daniel Thomas. Mr. Murray came from Maryland with his wife and seven children.

Thomas, one of five children born after they came to the district, was said to have been the first white child born along the Slippery Rock. During the years 1797 and 1798, many settlers came to the district and the township filled up rapidly. James Stewart, Robert Young, William Scott, Thomas and Marvin Christy, and Robert Stewart came during these two years and settled in the same neighborhood. The Christy's and Robert Stewart settled in what is Butler county, while the others settled in Lawrence county.

Other early settlers were Andrew Elliott, Charles Dobbs, William Morton, and Job Randolph. John Randolph, a son of the latter laid out the town of Princeton, naming it after his old home, Princeton, N. J. John Randolph was one of the first commissioners of Lawrence county.

Prior to the war of 1812, Amos Pyle came from Allegheny county. Caleb Pyle, Sr., a brother of Amos Pyle came with him. He was a lieutenant in the war of 1812.

Amos Pyle's wife was a witness to the battle of Bunker Hill, her father, William Wright, being in the battle. Edward White was also an early settler. He was John Weller, who purchased the White farm, which was taken over by a man named Sturgeon and improved, later being claimed by Sturgeon.

Robert Aiken came to the township in 1804, purchasing land from Edward White. George Magee came in 1837. Jacob Van Gorder came in 1806 and built a saw mill. He opened a grist mill about 1840. Elias Van Gorder came in 1808, bringing several children with him. He went to Erie in Captain Kildoo's company during the war of 1812, and died there.

The previous world's air speed record was 379.05 miles per hour.

Lydia Lindgren, modern Swedish nightingale who charges he broke a verbal promise to pay her $160,000 to drop a slander suit against another singer.

1,986,825 Are Liable To Draft During War

Armed Strength In Penna. Shows Increase In Ten Years, Census Reveals

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Pennsylvania has a potential armed strength of close to 2,000,000. The 1930 census, the Census Bureau reported today, revealed 1,986,825 men and boys in the State between 18 and 44 years of age. Under the National Defense Act males of that age spread are liable to draft in time of war.

Ten years before the total of militia age in the State was 1,853,104. The number of males subject to military service in the urban communities of the State last year was nearly three times the size of the group on farms and in other rural communities. The figures were 1,406,745 and 580,080, the rural group being smaller than in 1920.

Of the 1930 total 1,868,811 were white, 1,538,034 of which were native-born and 330,777 foreign-born. The remainder consisted of 114,133 negroes and 3881 members of other races.

Slump Crimps Co-Eds' Parties For 'Rushes'

STILLWATER, Okla., Sept. 30.—The depression put a crimp into sorority "rush week" at Oklahoma A. & M. Because of the cost of "courtesy" dates and parties given "rushes" co-eds decided to concentrate on "preference" dates—the kind when a definite effort is made to secure members.

Deer Jump Fences To Ravage Gardens

FLORENCE, Colo., Sept. 30.—If it isn't the drought, or the depression, or the "hoppers," it's the deer, truck gardeners in the Penrose district lamented. When vigorous onslaughts against grasshoppers began to show results, and the gardeners felt confident that the remainder of the summer would do wonders for their vegetables and fruits, hungry deer began to wander in from the hillsides.

Melons were their favorite dish, apparently, for vines and fruit alike were practically destroyed by this new kind of "pest." Fences proved no barrier to the agile raiders, who leaped over wires of almost any height, to get at the gardens.

To Widen Roads, Heavily Traveled

OIL CITY, Sept. 30.—Work started yesterday on widening of heavily-traveled Oil City-Rouseville road, the M. A. McCormick company, Inc., of Erie, having the contract. The project will cost the state $26,618, and calls for improvement of 5,787 feet of highway, with an overall width of 30 feet. Present width is 18 to 20 feet. District Engineer Stanton Funk stated that the highway will be completed and open to traffic before winter comes.

In 1929 there were 134,895 forest fires in the United States, causing estimated direct damage of $102,055,400.

MY NEW YORK

BY JAMES ASWELL

Central Press NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—When is a dog not a dog? Ans: In Manhattan, where pets are not pleasant animals, but proud individuals who are never to be affronted with impunity. There are chows and Pekinese here possessed of more flunkies, cars, perfumed baths, invitations to functions and temperaments than Perry Hopkins Joyce.

The "million-dollar parade ground" in which the pampered canine of the late Miss Ella Wendell used to sun himself, while real estate corporations bid in vain for that plot of Fifth Avenue ground adjoining the old Wendell mansion, is a matter of common knowledge. And this was not the striking exception that newspaper stories seemed to imply. I know many similar cases.

The explanation may lie in the vast loneliness of Manhattan. Intimate friendships, particularly between women, are rare; there are no back fences to lean across in this interchange of neighborhood gossip. Such news flies here through the columns of daily papers, an impersonal medium at best. The result is that pets take on a human relationship with their owners never possible in small towns in exactly the same way.

The wife of a friend of mine is rumored to hold long, confidential conversations with her wire-haired terrier while her husband is away at the office. She will not permit couples with young children to visit her home. Young humans annoy her terrier and make the best jollies. On the last occasion when a child was in the house the pup was nervous and distraught for days. He had to be taken to the shore for thorough rest and recuperation.

And yesterday afternoon, strolling past the fifty-ninth street entrance to the Plaza Hotel I glimpsed a handsome lad entering her limousine while the doorman escorted a haughty-eyed Scotch terrier from the vestibule. I recognized Mrs. Clara Belle Walsh immediately. She is one of the town's most luminous society matrons, one of the few who still conduct "salons" in the grand old style. She is a Kentucky blue-blood—caste before which even New York continues to salaam.

Her dog is known the length of Park Avenue's fashionable section. The canine is spoken of in Newport and Palm Beach in the same tones that are reserved for prominent sportsmen. "Mr. F. O. Skippy Walsh" is the name cryptically engraved on the terrier's own calling cards. When

Star Lore

THE SUN IS CHIEF DISTURBER OF MOON'S ORBIT
By Arthur DeV. Carpenter

The moon is constantly changing its orbit, chiefly because of the gravitational influence of the sun. When the moon is at new moon it is in the direction of the sun from the earth, and in that position is attracted to a greater degree than the earth. Then if the earth could be held fast, the moon would be drawn entirely away from the earth, but the earth is also drawn by the sun at the same time so earth and moon are not separated. As a net result the moon's orbit is greatly changed at this time. When the moon is full the earth, being next to the sun, is then drawn away from the moon. At all times the sun's attraction on the moon is twice that of the earth's.

FAME
When Charles Evans Hughes—who as Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court wields more power quietly than Mussolini in all his pomp—returned from abroad recently he refused to let photographers snap him at the dock. He was acting, as few realized, in simple self-defense.

I saw the patriarchal Chief Justice out for a walk on Fifth Avenue this morning. The street was crowded. Hughes treated his way through the mob without so much as a glance from anyone. He was unattended by a single secret service operative (who, I recall from Washington days, always were clearly discernible a few paces behind the President). He must have gloried in his freedom from the gapers. Serene in his beard and comparative anonymity, he could lead an almost private life.

J. P. Morgan, another avowed enemy of photographers has achieved the same placidity. At Fifty-first Street (I had followed for several squares) a crowd had gathered outside a shop. I wondered if word had spread after all, that Hughes was due there. But the Chief Justice paced unconcernedly past the door. A few seconds later there was a murmur in the assembled spectators. A pretty woman was wafted out on a wide-eyed hush.

Miss Helen Morgan, of the Ziegfeld "Follies."

COUNTERPART
When the boy winners of the National Intelligence Test were enjoying their prize tour of Italy recently they were subjected to a thorough inspection of the island of Capri, piloted by the dapper Duke Dusinet, mayor of the place. The Duke filled with patriotism, led the lads for hours from one view to another on foot through the broiling sun.

Finally, one of the youngsters, puffing and wiping his brow, sighed: "Well, Duke, you have one thing in common with the mayor of New York. You're a 'Walker,' all right!"

Vital Statistics—The government ought to stop sending so many lonely missionaries to the South Sea Islands. The cannibals are getting tired of plain food.

I have found that it is particularly good with a juicy tender steak or chops . . . that is why first class restaurants always serve it with such orders. Liggett Urges Action On Stream Pollution At Ellwood Meeting

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 30.—A long run will prove injurious to the communities of Ellwood City, New Castle and Slippery Rock unite into a working organization that will stick together until they have obtained satisfactory results in disposing of the pollution of Slippery Rock creek was made by Thomas A. Liggett, Pittsburgh conservationist, last night before a crowd of sportsmen, members of the borough council and board of education in the Lincoln gymnasium. A good representation from each of the cities mentioned was present at the time.

This is the first step in acquiring the present McConnell's Mills site for a state park, asserted Mr. Liggett, and the next one would be in forcing the coal miners to send their water discharges from the mines alkalized instead of acid.

Turner Chairman. Burgess Judd C. Turner was appointed chairman of the evening and introduced the speaker as an outstanding public benefactor, who was responsible more than any one else in making Cook's forest a state park.

The alleged stream pollution which is traced to the Grove City sewage disposal plant can be remedied by disposing the sewage through sulphuric acid and granulated slag or through broken limestone, stated the speaker. The problem now would be to compel the coal miners and other sources of stream pollution to do this.

Mr. Liggett pointed out that four bills doing away with stream pollution were defeated at the last session of the state legislature. It is up to every citizen who has the health and welfare of his community at heart to see the people have safe drinking water and bathing places. They must go after the sanitary water board, the health department, and the representative of their district in the state legislature to gain the necessary aid to dispose of this evil. The sportsmen alone cannot do this but must have the aid of the entire community.

Fish Killed. Fish and other water life have been killed by the thousands by the recent stream pollution. Bathers were infected as an example proved last night. Mr. Liggett asserted that "there was no earthly excuse in destroying things of value to man. Statistics showed that the annual benefit derived from hunting, fishing and aid received by farmers from various birds and animals amounted to a sum greater than the cost of the World War. Mr. Liggett believes that the mines and other sources of stream pollution must be compelled to close down if it still continues without any attempt to remedy the matter. This can be done as was shown by the American Rolling Mill at Butler, which was responsible for the pollution of the Connoquessing creek several years ago. After some pressure from individuals, the people, and various organizations the company remedied the situation and water life is again evident in the creek at present.

The thousands of annual campers and vacationers must be protected. The forests, fields and streams have an important part in the physical, mental and spiritual development of our youth. These afford them an excellent place to spend their idle time, he said.

A community should make its resolutions and stand by them. Government officials must give in in the end. Persistence will gain their goal. Due to the pollution of the Slippery Rock creek the Ellwood Consolidated Water company finds it more expensive to bring safe drinking water into the homes of the people. A greater quantity of chemicals has to be used which in the

Hasbach Is Freed On Arson Charge

Jury In Case Of Ellwood City Young Man Finds Him Not Guilty Of Crime

William Hasbach of Ellwood City was declared not guilty of the crime of arson by a jury at the Lawrence County court house about 3:15 Tuesday afternoon. The case had been given to the jury by Judge Hildebrand about 11 a. m. Following the verdict Hasbach was discharged.

In the trial of the case Hasbach had maintained that Frank Port had asked him to drive him to the Rhoda Merriman house on the New Castle-Ellwood road. Port had told Hasbach that he thought thieves were stealing the plumbing, and that he wanted to find out.

Hasbach claimed that when he entered the house with Port an explosion had occurred. Hasbach said that there was no other conversation between him and Port regarding the house, except that Port suspected that the plumbing was being stolen. Port was convicted of arson in connection with the same case and is now serving a term in the Bellefonte penitentiary.

Jolly Gathering Of Pirate Gang

Girl Reserves Of Local Junior High School Have Party At Y. W. C. A.

New Castle has only two large rivers, but that doesn't seem to mean that there are no pirates around. People who chance to be in the vicinity of the Y. W. C. A. building Tuesday evening will agree that there are pirates in this city—gangs of them.

The pirates themselves calling themselves the George Washington Junior High School Girl Reserves congregated in the Y. W. C. A. gymnasium and had one fine evening. They were all dolled up in their best pirate costumes, beards, pistols, etc., and presented quite a motley appearance.

They played games just like ordinary people and their program was snappy and pleasing. There was singing and dance by Layne Wheeler, a cello solo by Gertrude Ferver, a Spanish dance by Dorothy Fletcher, a pirate dance by Esther Pierce and Doris Marvin; a solo by Helen Bauman. All the performers were captives from the conquered ship by the way.

A treasure hunt was conducted and was won by Peggy Veach. Dancing followed and the music was furnished by Sophia Buchner, Dorothy Fisher and Frances Tomocello.

Chairman of the arrangements committee was Doris Marvin. Donna Jean Brail was the pirate chief. Candy and spice cakes, served later, were delicious.

SNOW KEEPS FARMER COOL. ST. PAUL, Neb. Sept. 30.—Last winter's snows are still keeping Frank Teichmiller's ice box cool. When a blizzard heaped up a high snowbank near his home he covered it with straw. The snowbank has provided ice throughout the summer. There was but one drawback to the plan. A large apple tree failed to bear fruit, or even have blossoms, because of the cold of the drift which surrounded it.

New Castle High Prepares For Stiff Battle On Friday

Charleroi High Eleven To Give New Castle Plenty Of Opposition

Visitors To Bring Big Delegation Of Rooters Along For Game

Meeting an opponent rated as one of the best in western Pennsylvania, the New Castle high school eleven is training diligently at Taggart field for Friday night, when the red and black schoolboy combination encounters Charleroi high at Taggart field. Coach Phil Bridenbaugh sent his proteges through a strenuous session Tuesday afternoon.

Have Scrimmage
A long scrimmage was the lot of the griders. Earlier in the afternoon the local linemen were ordered through a round of "charging the sled." On one side of the field were the linemen pushing and charging a huge implement known as a sled in football. On the other side were the backfield men, some kicking, some passing and some catching the oval.

The scrimmage was the final thing on the program. Coach Phil Bridenbaugh shifted his line-up considerably yesterday. On the line were Ciccone and Hileman at ends, Mike and Crisci at tackles and a new pair of guards in Ostrosky and Kavenick. DeCarbo was at center. In the backfield the following four started: Wrona at fullback, Reynolds and Koleski at half-backs and J. Fram at quarterback. On reserve were James, Komink and Rambo for the backfield.

Fred Hileman, New Castle end, who recently sustained a severe injury to his cheek bone, commenced training Tuesday night. He played with the use of a special designed headgear. Whether Hileman will start at end Friday night is not known yet. Hileman is in good physical condition for Friday he probably start.

Harold Workman, who was injured in the McKees Rocks game, will not see action in the game Friday. It will probably be a week or more before he will be able to don his uniform again. William McIver was out of the workout due to an injury to his leg. Pericles Akounes did not report, having had a tooth pulled. Jimmy Mike, who was also injured in the last game, was out for the practice and participated in the scrimmage. The remainder of the squad appears to be in fine shape.

Groom Koleski
Joe Koleski, who has been out for practice for three days, is being groomed for a backfield berth. Strong and big, Koleski may develop into a good backfield man. He is a good passer and can hit the line hard. For the first time in five years New Castle may have a place kicker. In practice last night Koleski placed-kicked the oval in fine shape. Ralph Day, who thrilled many fans with his field goals, was the last place-kicker of note for New Castle.

Coach H. Bridenbaugh appeared pleased with the showing Koleski made in this respect. On the first team he made a creditable showing. With a little more experience he may develop into a gridder who should add much strength to the local eleven.

Second Team Good
The second team, composed of Nocera, DeFazio, Waggoner, Thomas, C. Workman, Jones, Lane, Sotus, Cooper, Williams and Duff, made an impressive showing against the varsity in the scrimmage. This boy Waggoner, on the line, is apt to land a varsity berth should he continue to show the form he has been demonstrating in the workouts of late. He was in on every play last night and made several nice tackles.

Lane, who is another speed merchant, also looked good, as did Nocera. In many instances the second team held the varsity eleven. In many plays the second team broke loose and threw the varsity ball carrier for no gain.

Frank Babiarz, a big, husky lineman who has been training since the start of the training season, continues to make a good showing. The only thing that has been keeping this gridder off the team is eligibility. Faculty Manager Ralph H.

Gardner and Principal F. L. Orth are investigating to find out whether Babiarz is eligible or not. With this lad in the game much strength will be added on the New Castle line. He tips the beam at 175.

Word was received from Charleroi this morning that the visitors are training hard for their coming battle with New Castle. In Jones, Charleroi has one of the best punters in the history of the school. Assistant Coach "Gig" Thomas of the New Castle staff, who watched Charleroi beat Scott 32-0, stated that Charleroi has a "sweet" team. Charleroi is planning to bring a big delegation to New Castle to witness this game. Some 1,000 seats have been ordered by the visitors. Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner is arranging final plans for the game. The contest will start at eight o'clock.

City-County Grid League Is Formed

Six Teams Will Contest For Honors On Football Field; To Start October 17

A city-county football league was organized here last night at a meeting held at Sears, Roebuck & Co. Six teams were represented. This is the first league of its kind ever attempted in New Castle. Tully Caiazza is directing the league.

The following teams hold franchises and were represented by the following: Sacred Hearts, Fred Marcella; Williams All Stars by Bob Shook; Croton A. C. by Jim Yargo; New Castle All Stars by Ralph Brooks; DeHart A. C. by Walter Smith and West Pittsburg by Mike Banko.

To Start Oct. 17.
It was agreed upon to commence the league on October 17. There will be six fields used for the games as follows: Centennial field, Sampson street field, Glasser field, George Washington, E. & A. field and Garland field at West Pittsburg. Charles Gillum, Ray Nolte and Charles P. Walther have been appointed as a board of arbitration to handle all disputes that come up. All protests and disputes will be handled by this board. The following men are asked to see Tully Caiazza immediately: "Bub" Jones, Norm Nocera, Phil Colacura, Harold Harris, Kiski Marino, Joe Factor, "Peg" Thomas, Merle McIntosh, "Toby" Penati, "Sun" Howley and Dom Costello.

Twenty Players.
A list of all players must be turned in to Mr. Caiazza and must not contain more than 20 players. All playing fields will be lined up and marked off on the day of play. The teams are entering strict training and some fast games will result when the league gets under way. The league promises to be exceptionally strong and quite a bit of interest is being taken in the project. All parts of the city will be represented. The games will be played on Saturdays. Each team will play five games during the season. The independent grid teams have tried for many years to get an organization here, but were unsuccessful until this season.

Waynesburg Points For Grover Game

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Sept. 30.—Hardly overconfident despite the startling defeat of Penn State last week, Waynesburg's griders were pointing today toward the ensuing battle this Saturday with Grove City college, a traditional rival. Cardinals Confident Of Better Showing In Coming World Series

Frisch And Bottomley Are Improved Hitters And Rarin' To Get At Grove

Earnshaw And Grove Will Face Improved Cardinal Team—Der-ringer Is Good

By Frank G. MENKE
International News Service Sport Correspondent

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 30.—The Cardinals' tail feathers became much ruffled today over the pro-Athletics tone of the prognosticators, and they demanded to know:

"Say what do these experts use as substitutes for brains when they get to figuring that we'll be just a soft touch for those Athletics? They're just a kind of a screwy lot, ain't they?" "Yeah," agreed the razzing Mr. Burleigh Grimes. "That's about all—or less. Setups are we? Say listen. If those A's snag as many as two games it'll be because somebody busted the rule about miracles."

What About Grove
"Grove? Well, what about Grove? Didn't we beat him last year? And this time he'll probably be going in to the series kind of all tired out from winning 31 for himself and company. Earnshaw? Well, we want to meet up with that bird again. We owe him something and want to pay—with interest."

"Just about everything that could break against us last year broke against us. Anybody that does not think ditto should gaze once again upon the statistics of 1930."

As for instance, it was pointed out, those batting marks turned in by Douthitt, Frisch and Bottomley. These are among the super-whang-ers of the Cards. In 1930 Douthitt's average was .063 and Bottomley could do not better than .045, making one safety in 22 trips to the plate. Frisch poked out 5 smackers in 24 trials, for .208. The trio had a grand average of .112.

Better Balanced Team
"We've got a better balanced team today than last year. Our pitching is improved. We don't think the A's Grove and all are as good for the series play as they were in 1930. Our tough luck is that Jess Haines won't be available for action. But we've got a youngster in Der-ringer who will cause those A's plenty and plenty of this thing called trouble."

"The A's are a cinch, hey? Huh?" "Some of the big guns are swinging to the support of the Cardinals. The odds have fluttered down a bit and now are 2 to 3 on the A's to win as against 8 to 5 yesterday. Jack Atkin came in from the Pacific coast and took $6,000 against his $4,000. Frankie Moore is reported to have sent $5,000 against $7,500 that the Cardinals will win. Plenty of the places that handle bets report large sums of Cardinal money, but there is no action at the moment because the home towners have stipulated that 8 and in some cases, 9 must be laid against their 5."

Carnegie Tech To Meet W. & J.

Skibos Report Squad Is Hard Hit By Eligibility And Injuries

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 30.—With two line stalwarts declared ineligible because of classroom difficulties, another cut down with a painful injury in the opening game of the season in Buffalo last Saturday, and a pair of valuable backs out of action because of training camp mishaps, Carnegie Tech's gridiron squad is in the midst of preparations for its first major game of the season.

The Skibos will face W. & J., one of their oldest rivals, in the stadium next Saturday, in a shattered condition. It will be Tech's home opener and the first big game of the year for Pittsburgh.

Thurman Croft, one of the ineligible although only a sophomore, had clinched the important left tackle post, and was playing brilliant football in practice games. Bunny Burzio, who is also deficient scholastically, earned a letter last year at right guard. Henry Drescher, who had been playing regular left guard, suffered torn hip ligaments in the Buffalo game, and has been ordered to rest. Clyde Heinzer and Johnny Sayles, fullbacks, are nursing shoulder and hand injuries respectively, and did not even don suits against the New Yorkers.

This leaves the Tartans with but 28 men, of whom only two are experienced guards. W. & J. has always been Carnegie's pet jinx, and next Saturday will bring to the Stadium her most powerful team in half a dozen seasons. Tech's recent casualties come in an exceptionally lean year, when losses in playing strength can be ill afforded.

Franklin High Topples Union

Ben Franklin Trims Union High Reserves, 27-7 Tuesday After-noon

NICKUM RACES 65 YARDS FOR SCORE

Ben Franklin won its second grid victory of the season Tuesday afternoon on the Scotland Lane field, defeating the Union high school reserves. The score was 27-7.

Hardly had the game gotten under way when the Franklin eleven tallied. Franklin kicked off to Union. Unable to make any gain, Union kicked to Franklin. On a series of line bucks and end runs Franklin scored. Majocka carried the oval over. A pass Nickum to Tommelio was good for the extra point.

After kicking off to Union the Franklin line held the Unionites. On the third down Union tried a pass which was intercepted by Majocka, who raced 35 yards for the second score for his team. Majocka hit the line for the extra marker.

The third Franklin touchdown came in the second quarter when Nickum tallied on an end run. Franklin attempted a pass for the extra point. The pass was incomplete. The half ended Franklin 20, Union 0.

Many substitutes saw action for Franklin in the second half. In the third quarter Franklin fumbled the pignin on the 30-yard line where Union recovered. Union made a first down, bringing the ball to the 20-yard line. A penalty of 15 yards gave Union the ball on the 5-yard mark where they scored on three line plunges. Denny scored for Union.

At the start of the final quarter Nickum got a punt on the 35-yard line and raced the remaining 65 yards for the final Franklin touchdown. Myard hit the line for the extra point. The final score was Franklin 27, Union 7.

The Ben Franklin band under the direction of Miss Eva Coulter pepped the game a bit. The work of the entire line was noticeable for the winners. Shelloze, Schlosberg, McKee, DeMartino and O'Neil looked good on the line. Nickum and Majocka were the best in the backfield.

The work of Denny and Monico was the best for Union high.

Big Six Title Campaign Looks Like Grand Grid Tiff To Jock Sutherland

By Jock SUTHERLAND
Pittsburgh Football Coach
Written For Central Press and New Castle News

What a mad scramble for the laurels in the Big Six this Fall! Missouri Valley fans are in for one big season as far as their favorites are concerned. And the situation puzzles me.

At present Nebraska and Kansas seem to be the class of the conference, with the former team leading by a shade. Kansas State, with one of the greatest troth teams in the history of the school and some fine holdovers from last year, together with Coach Bo McMillen's strategy should be one of the outstanding threats in the association, with the possibility of the Argies knocking off the odds-on favorites and clinching the title.

Both Missouri and Oklahoma have been riddled by graduation, and, at the present writing, should not be too serious threats to the Cornhuskers or Jayhawks. Iowa State's new mentor, George Veenker, has a man-sized job ahead, with a green team.

However I cast my vote with the big Nebraska team, although I would not be surprised to see Kansas slip over a win on the Big Red team, when the outfits tangle next month. Coach Dana Bible has a wealth of material at nearly all positions on the line, with the nucleus around Hugh Rhea, his giant tackle.

Another outstanding Cornhusker star is Hekif, who should be one of the season's best warnmen. Graduation shattered the Kansas line, but with the aid of strong sophomore material, which the Jayhawk has, should be practically as strong as last year.

And what about the Argies? Last year almost 40 high school captains sat on the pine bench while 11 others, high school captains, were battling against first-year conference rivals. With this in mind, along with the holdover varsity material, State should soar up near the top of the association.

Oklahoma bids for a fair season.

regardless of the loss of several of last season's stars through graduation. Lack of reserve material has long been a jinx to Sooner teams and the same threat may again harass the outfit. Coach Lindsey must unwork a pair of tackles in order to have a fair chance at the title.

Missouri—A line boasting of but two varsity holdovers from last year, but a veteran backfield intact, must certainly count heavily on the sophomore talent. And this is exactly what the Tigers are planning to do.

For this year at least, Iowa State may have to grace the cellar once again, until Coach Veenker gets his team in tow. He will build for next season although the new coach may open up with an above average outfit.

Marcellas Close Athletic Season

South Side Organization Has Good Football, Basketball And Mueball Teams

Having copped two titles and being runners-up in another, the Marcella athletic club has closed a successful season in athletics. Starting the football season the Marcellas won the Independent title and was runner-up for the floor title. The Marcella mueball team won the class B title and lost the Class A title in a series to the Lockleys.

The Marcella eleven was undefeated for the season. Much credit should be given Fred Marcella who managed these athletic teams. Tip Richards was coach and Yanks Marcella captain.

Cochrane Tells How Connie Mack Selects His Starting Hurlers

No One Knows, Except Mack Himself, Just Who Will Pitch First Game Of Series

Mack Fooled Cardinals And Cubs Before And May Do Same Thing This Year

By MICKEY COCHRANE
Catcher Philadelphia Athletics
(Copyright, 1931, by International News Service)

EN ROUTE TO ST. LOUIS, Sept. 30.—If the general baseball public believes the members of the Philadelphia Athletics know who will pitch the first World Series game—and the fans must have this idea from the number of times we've been asked this information—the cash customers are mistaken. Connie Mack alone possesses this knowledge.

Manager Mack seldom takes a player into his confidence regarding the starting pitcher of an important game. Frequently he tells a hurler to be ready for a game two or three days hence but as a rule pitchers aren't told until the day of action. And in World Series battles, Connie's more secretive than ever.

Pulls Fast One
Last October, Mack did break his silence. But this was a paramount move in his strategy. He had won the first two games from the Cardinals and was under the impression that the Cardinals would pitch the third game in St. Louis. Early the morning of this opening contest in Sportsman's Park, Mack called Eddie Rummel into his hotel suite and asked him to go through the actions of that day's starting pitcher.

Rummel was to take the pitcher's turn in batting practice and also warm up ten minutes before the game time. Connie, however, informed Eddie that this was only camouflage to keep Rube Walberg from worrying.

For Rube was to start. Walberg had showed nervousness all season when he knew in advance when he was to pitch and frequently in bad condition when he ascended the mound.

As Rummel acted the part of the third game hurler, Walberg sat on the bench, carefree and joking. Ten minutes before the game was to get under way, Mack told Rube to warm up in case Rummel got into trouble during the first inning. Walberg did—free of worry. He never realized he was to pitch until the announcer spread the word through the amplifiers.

Ehmke Surprised
Remember our first game with the Chicago Cubs at Wrigley Field in 1927? Our team expected George Earnshaw to open. If not George, then Lefty Grove. Only one sports writer had the temerity to pick Howard Ehmke. Shortly before game time I went into our dressing room to warm my fingers. It was raw and chilly outside. Earnshaw was sitting on the bench. I thought he was to pitch. When I returned to the dugout Ehmke was warming up. Connie had instructed him to. It was as much of a surprise to us as to the fans, scribes and Cubs.

We don't know who will take the mound in this year's opening game. Most writers think it will be either Grove or Earnshaw. Everybody's guess is as good as another's. Maybe Mack will pull another surprise and send Waite Hoyt or Rube Walberg or Eddie Rummel to the box. Hoyt always pitches well in Sportsman's Park and he has three World Series wins over the Cards. Waite is a smart money pitcher with an abundance of intestinal fortitude. He has regained all his old-time ability.

Who For Cards?
It makes no difference to who starts against the Cards—Grove, Earnshaw, Walberg, Mahaffey, Hoyt, Rummel or MacDonald. We have a great pitching staff—a better rounded corps than given credit for. Every man is capable of holding the Cards. At least we think so and have confidence in them to come through.

The St. Louis staff has our respect. Burleigh Grimes is a masterful pitcher, one of the best in modern baseball. We may see him in the first game. If not Burleigh, then Hallahan or Derringer. But we'll let Gabby Street do the selecting—we'll do the hitting of his pitchers.

Central Press Sports Editor

World series history argues against the Philadelphia Athletics winning their third straight world championship—but that's about the only argument for a defeat of the Mackmen one can find.

And it isn't a good one. They don't pay off on past performance in sport. No team has ever won three straight series in a row, but that means nothing. No major league player had ever been able to hit 30 home runs in one season until Babe Ruth came along and performed the feat thousands of players over a period of 50 years had been unable to achieve.

The Athletics can win three in a row—and probably will.

Only in the infield do the St. Louis Cardinals look superior to their American league rivals. The Mackmen apparently have it on them at bat, on the mound, in the outfield and behind home plate.

This belief is based not so much on what the two clubs did and didn't do to the opposition in their own leagues this year as to what they did and didn't do against each other last fall. Save for one or two changes the lineups of the two clubs will be exactly the same as they were in 1930.

Paul Derringer has added much strength to the Cardinal mound staff, but this may prove to be more than balanced by the added assistance to the A's of Waite Hoyt, Rube Walberg and LeRoy Mahaffey. Rube and Mahaffey were with the Mackmen last fall but they weren't as good pitchers then as they are now.

Since there is no reason to believe that one or the other of the two big leagues is the stronger, team for team, the respective showings this season of Philadelphia and St. Louis give no clue to how they may compare. Both won their league championships easily, both had the best pitching staffs, both fielded well through the season and neither proved too potent at the plate.

Sentiment, this time, probably will be on the side of the Cardinals. The American league has won four straight series, the A's two. Baseball fans may figure that Connie Mack, popular as he is, has had enough glory for awhile. And it would be a good thing for baseball if the monotonous regularity of American league victories was stopped.

But it will take a great team to beat the A's this year. The Cardinals are a good, well-balanced team, shrewdly directed, but they can hardly be termed great.

Trainer Winner Of City Title

George M. Trainor Leads Gilliland And Long For City Golf Championship

George M. Trainor, Castle Hills champion, won the City Championship title Monday afternoon at the Municipal Course when he shot a 44-39 for 83 and a grand 54-hole total of 232. His nearest opponent M. K. Gilliland had 252, and Billy Long had 256.

The first match was at the Field Club, the second at Castle Hills, and the third at the Muni. The golfers were loud in their praise of the golf courses here.

Long In Trouble
Billy Long again had trouble and on the first hole and hung up an 8, while his opponents needed a five and six. Long had a nice birdie five on the long par 6, 618 yard hole, while Trainor and Gilliland were satisfied with par 6's. The eleventh hole proved another jinx for Long with another eight creeping on the score card. Trainor's poorest exhibition was on the seventeenth hole when he had to take a seven, but despite this difficulty Trainor carded a 39 for the second nine, to lead the field. Gilliland and Long tied with 42 each on the second nine.

The City championship now rests with George M. Trainor, and it rests on deserving shoulders. Trainor is one of the longest drivers in New Castle. He will be ripe for the big time in a few years time. All he needs is experience and confidence to make the grade. Billy Long is another comer. Gilliland is a veteran of many campaigns and still a mighty good golfer.

The results:—
Trainor out—556 446 635... 44
in—444 445 473... 39—83
Gilliland out—665 446 645... 46
in—574 455 444... 12—88
Long out—854 545 534... 43
in—483 450 444... 42—85

Ex-Slave Reaches 100th Anniversary

ST. CATHERINES, Ont., Sept. 30.—Katherine (Auntie) Dexteraux, 31 years a slave, celebrated her 100th anniversary here recently.

When the Civil War freed her at 31, she decided to come to Canada. "It was hard for Negroes to rent houses here when I first came," she said recently, "so we just worked hard and earned enough money to buy one. I still do all my own work."

Aunt Kate's memories of slavery days are vivid.

"We had a good master," she said. "There was no whipping on the plantation; he wouldn't even let us whip our own children."

"At Christmas we had a week's vacation. He used to tell us we could go where we wanted. He always laughingly warned us, however, 'not to go to Canada.'"

"When we were freed, the notion of going to Canada just stuck in my mind. I'm glad I did."

"Auntie" says she isn't in quite as good health as she was a few years ago, but still manages to "get along all right."

Titans Scrimmage To Improve Offense For Adrian Contest

(Special to The News.)
NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Sept. 30.—Scrimmage Monday, scrimmage Tuesday, scrimmage Wednesday. Like the old song about hash every day in the week, the football drills at Westminster college have not lacked for plenty of action.

Following the ragged and periodic showing on offense in the opening game, Coach John Lawther gave the squad a pertinent lecture on Monday, drilled the men in signals for a half hour and then called for a 15-minute scrimmage period.

Tuesday again saw the team scrimmage for 15 minutes. This afternoon's schedule calls for a half hour of intensive scrimmage.

Patterson, of New Wilmington; Flynn, Farrell; Sillman, New Castle; Michaels, Turtle Creek; Young, Freeport, L. I.; Shaffer, New Wilmington; Stalpes, Butler; Rush, Bergholz, O.; Siljander, Pittsburgh; Sweeney, Youngstown, and Turner, Youngstown, were all used in the backfield. Fredericks Drives Bessemer High Team

Hopes To Strengthen Line For Game With Scienceville Saturday

BESSEMER TO BE SCENE OF GAME

Coach Fredericks is pushing the Bessemer high school football team strong every afternoon in the hope of strengthening the outfit for the game with Scienceville high which takes place at 2:30 p. m. Saturday afternoon at Bessemer. Fredericks believes that the clash with Scienceville will be as hard as the annual game with Union high.

Although Bessemer lost to Lowellville the eleven and student body are not downcast. It was the first game and with lots of work Fredericks believes the line can be strengthened as he has plenty of material.

Scienceville high is part of the high school system of Youngstown.

Depression Hits Jail Hotel In Cheyenne

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Sept. 30.—The depression has even reached the "hotel" business at the city hall. Police say that on an average of less than a dozen men apply for free shelter at the present time. When business is good, during the cold months, as high as 60 men have applied for a night's lodging.

Most of the transients are sleeping in vacant buildings on the outskirts of town, who are "flopping" under trees. The warm weather has caused the change.

The tramps who sleep in the jail are required to sign a register with their name and address. Names of men from many nations and hundreds of cities appear in the book.

RIGHT OIL makes any gas
a better gas!

YOU can't get more power out of a gasoline or motor fuel than there is in it.

But it takes proper lubrication with the right grade of the right oil to get all the available power out of any gas.

That's why the right oil—Amoco Motor Oil—will make any gas a better gas.

No matter whether you use Amoco-Gas or Orange American Gas—fill your crankcase with Amoco Motor Oil (100% Paraffine Base).

Amoco Motor Oil is wax-free, has a low cold test, better heat-resisting qualities. And all of that means less sludge and carbon formation under any operating conditions!

Call for Amoco Motor Oil every time—whether it's a quart you need or a complete crankcase change.

NEW YORK STOCKS

Railroad Stocks Lead
In Day's Market Upturn

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—The railroad stocks were the leaders in an upturn in prices in an irregular market this morning.

The Industrial stocks and Utilities were forced to slightly lower levels in the first period by an accumulation of over-night selling orders, which carried both U. S. Steel and American Tel. and Tel. to the lowest prices. Big Steel broke under its 72 for a small volume of sales. American Tobacco, Consolidated Gas and General Electric sold lower. General Motors and Dupont were under pressure at the start, and were forced down fractionally.

The upturn in the Rails accompanied reports that the transportation chiefs had more good progress in ironing out consolidation problems; that Rail freight rates were likely to go up 7 to 10 per cent and that freight car loadings have been increasing moderately of late. New Haven moved up 3 points to 41½ and New York Central was 3½ at 65.

The high-priced specialties which were under pressure on Tuesday recovered a part of their losses, but their movements were offset by the sharp declines elsewhere in the group. International Business Machine fell off 6 points to 112½. Standard of New Jersey led a reaction in the oil and sold at 30 for the first time this year. Atlantic Refining and Secony-Vacuum sold fractionally lower.

Reno Prefers
Blondes For Game Boosters

Gambling Houses Employ
Them To Entice
Players

RENO, Nev., Sept. 30.—Kiwianians and Rotarians in Reno have severe competition in the "booster business."

When any man in "The biggest little city in the world" speaks of a "booster" he is not referring to the Chamber of Commerce, or the luncheon clubs, but of that organization whose membership is carefully guarded from public scrutiny.

Visitors to Reno, who are strange to the ways of gambling, are impressed by the large number of people who are to be found nightly seated at the various games of chance.

The sang-froid with which these individuals place their bets seldom fails to excite the imagination of the onlooker. Orientations when the visitor sees another player having an "unusual streak of good luck" the temptation arises to follow the fortunate operator and possibly make a killing by "stringing along."

Boosters may be either men or women. Blondes are preferred among the latter sex.

Reno gambling houses employ these boosters to promote activity or keep the play going. They work on regular shifts and earn about $4 per day. During the last session of the legislature, boosters in Las Vegas gaming casinos complained that they were working 14 and 15 hours a day and receiving only $2 per day.

The boosters play with the firm's money. If they lose, they are not out of pocket, and their "winnings" must be returned to the house.

County Detective H. Martin Lee preferred the charges against Buchoski.

Mantz set $300 as the amount of bail, but Buchoski could not furnish it.

Acclaimed as Majors' Best

Robert "Lefty" Grove, pitching ace of the Athletics, is shown beaming happily as he holds the silver loving cup which was presented to him by the Philadelphia Sporting Writers' Association after he had been chosen as the most valuable player in the major leagues.

HERE'S REAL NEWS, NOT FROM RENO

Few couples have lived together as long as Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Persing of Clyde, O., who have just celebrated their seventieth wedding anniversary. He is 94 and she is 90. They were married at Bellevue, O., in 1861, and Persing went to war a year later. He returned to his bride three years later, and they never have been separated, even for a day, since that time.

Rigid Probe Of Primary Voting At Pittsburgh

District Attorney Andrew Park Will Conduct Intensive Probe

FURTHER FRAUDS
WILL BE SOUGHT

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Sept. 30.—District Attorney Andrew T. Park today began to hunt further election frauds in Pittsburgh with an examination of the assessment books of the board for the assessment and revision of taxes as a starting point.
He intends to go to the bottom of the system employed in "phantom" voting, the district attorney announced as he began his probe, and predictions were made that the new development in Allegheny county's election investigations may result in the end of the system of "phantom voting."

Thorough Probe.
Whether the district attorney intends to call before him persons who presented lists of taxables for which tax receipts were to be obtained could not be learned, but it was learned he will make a thorough and searching probe of the system of assessment and payment.

With this new angle of the county election probe in progress, indictments were to be prepared today against 18 persons cited yesterday in the first presentation of the county grand jury for violation of the election laws.

be prepared, will be drawn by Assistant District Attorney George F. P.
Langfitt.

presentation were Albert Pryle, Jack

Township election board; Harry J.
Walsh, Earl C. Cline, Alice J. J.
Jennings, Ida Einsenberg and Gertrude Shannon, members of the election board in the 9th district of the 20th ward, Pittsburgh.

ROAMING

With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations
Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

This opening today deserves a Flash, Bulletin, Lead-All. As far as this department of this family newspaper is concerned the event of the week has happened. Food arrived tonight.

Not much food you understand.
Not enough to give a humming bird a serious case of indigestion but it was food at any rate and gave rise to the possibility that before we got out of here we might work up to a ham sandwich.

There were several articles of food on the slate. There were crackers, small ones, butter and there was tea and there was some noodle soup, baked potato and some white cherries. The soup was tasty and the noodles appetizing, both of them and as for what the potato tasted like that's by far after stowing in four huge oyster crackers an inch and a half square, three or four tablespoons of soup a cup of tea and some white cherries we were afraid of the fattening influence of the potato.

If the stomach reacts to this food favorably were matched to get a couple of rounds on a plate of ice cream tonight and perhaps a drink of something cold.

One of the things about a hospital that impress you after you come out of the fog sufficiently to be impressed by anything is the independence of one room from the other and the inner independence of one room upon the other. Which may or may not be a Chinese paradox but is meant to imply that room patients have the building to themselves insofar as knowing what is going on next door is concerned.

There may be neighbors to the right of me and to the left of me and I rather imagine there are judging from the flow of visitors but once the door of my room is closed the whole world is shut out and the ruler of the world becomes a little uniformed maid, whose arm is hardly strong enough to break a reed but whose orders are obeyed like those of one of the Caesars.

Perhaps this is one reason why girls like to become nurses for they certainly do not the chance to enforce their laws one hundred percent. Some of her laws may be handed down from the man above, the Doctor, but she sees they are obeyed whether you like it or not.

If anybody had ever told me that two nurses were going to stand between me and a decent bite to eat there would have been an argument but from last Friday night until lunch time this afternoon which is Tuesday, all the solid food we have had to eat could be put in a hollow tube.

There is one lesson a fellow learns after going through an operation of his own and that is he will not be dropping in to see any of his pals that have been operated on for at least four days after the cutting has been done. The day of the cutting they are so full of hop that you're not sure whether it is Thursday or a week last August. You may recognize your friends but you can't remember what you said.

The second day you are out of the fog more or less and into the

Horticulturist Warns Of Alfalfa Weevils

The third day the nurses are just bringing you around the fact that you are going to be permitted to eat the next day if you are a good boy.
So there's three days in the bag that you really shouldn't be talking to anybody. From the fourth day on barring any unforeseen eventualities you can resume speed insofar as conversation is concerned.

Among the arrivals today was a letter from that old Canadian expert, Wesley Davy. For once Wes had me on my back and let no time in shooting in a few highly barbed insults concerning hairy fish and if you ask me I'll still say it sounds like the old Phonnus Bolonnus to me.

FOOD ANIMALS IN LAST 25 YEARS of all the animals slaughtered. By 1924 it had increased to about 67 per cent of the total slaughter, a propor-
